

A collage of black and white photographs of hydroplane racing boats and drivers, with the text "HYDRO RECORD BOOK" overlaid in large orange letters. The collage includes various scenes: boats racing on the water, drivers in cockpits, drivers holding trophies, and close-ups of drivers. Some boats have names like "U-37", "U-55", "U-60", "U-64", "U-65", "U-66", "U-67", "U-68", "U-69", "U-70", "U-71", "U-72", "U-73", "U-74", "U-75", "U-76", "U-77", "U-78", "U-79", "U-80", "U-81", "U-82", "U-83", "U-84", "U-85", "U-86", "U-87", "U-88", "U-89", "U-90", "U-91", "U-92", "U-93", "U-94", "U-95", "U-96", "U-97", "U-98", "U-99", "U-100". Some drivers are wearing racing suits, some are in suits, and some are in casual wear. The background is a light blue gradient.

UNLIMITED NEWSJOURNAL

At exactly 3:05 p.m. on Thursday, June 23, 1904, a starter's gun was fired at the Columbia Yacht Club, located at the foot of West 86th Street in New York City, to start the first running of the American Power Boat Open Challenge Cup. At the center of this picture is a 60-foot-long boat named Standard, which was piloted by Carl Riotte, who built the craft along with his brother, Eugene. Riotte grabbed the lead immediately and, headed north up the Hudson River, built a lead of about six minutes over Water Lily by the time his boat reached the halfway point off the pier at Piedmont, New Jersey. There, he rounded the stake boat Queen Bess and returned to the yacht club, covering the 32-mile distance at an average of 19.6 miles per hour. The Standard repeated the feat each of the next two days and the Riottes become the first to be awarded a beautiful gold-plated chalice created by Tiffany and Company, a trophy that would soon become better known as the Gold Cup.

IMPORTANT NOTES:

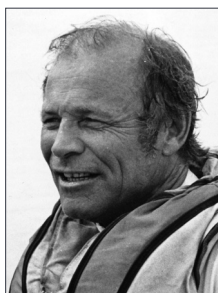

What's a race? The information in this Record Book includes the results of all "official races" that took place since 1922, which is when the Gold Cup class was established. It also includes Gold Cup races and some Harmsworth races that were held previous to 1922. To be counted among the 710 official races listed here, an event must meet two conditions: 1) at least three starters of the Unlimited-class, Gold Cup-class, the 725-class in Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association events, or equivalent; and 2) at least two heats of racing. The results of free-for-all events, for example, which were just one heat and were common during the years before World War II, are not counted in these records. Many exhibition races included several limited-class boats but only one or two Gold Cup-class boats and also wouldn't be counted in these records.

Who's the driver? In the case where more than one person handled the steering wheel during an event that ended up being a victory for that boat, the person who drove the boat in the event's last heat is given credit for the win.
