PRAIRIELAND STANDARD SCHNAUZER CLUB 2025 SPECIALTY

Our Specialty this year is dedicated to good friend and long-time PSSC/SSCA member, Gwen Kirman, who passed away on June 17, 2024 after a brief illness.

Gwen was involved with dogs most of her life. She was an obedience trainer and owned a boarding kennel. In the past she owned Whippets, Bloodhounds and Doberman Pinchers. In 2004 she got her first Standard Schnauzer, Kyser, (CH Peppermill and Shana Reign) from Karen Pare. She successfully showed him in both the US and Canada. Last fall she won Best Owner Handled Dog in Show with her current Standard Schnauzer, Ace (GCH CH Katon's Flying Tiger v Morgenwald) bred by Kathy Koehler, Penny Duffee and Connie Reidner. This turned out to be her last dog show.

She was a member of the SSCA for 20 years, serving several years as Ways and Means Chair. She also helped with several SSCA National Specialties.

Gwen was a long time member of the PSSC, serving on the Board for several years. She rarely missed any meetings or club activities despite the 1 ½ hour drive to Bloomington. She was involved with several of the club's community service projects. Gwen and Kyser represented PSSC at the dedication of an Emergency Relief Trailer for pets through a partnership with the AKC. That trailer is based with Emergency Management Services in Joliet. She was also a part of the fund-raising Cop project to provide McLean County sheriff's for the AKC Adopt a K9 a new K9 officer for the department. PSSC KC to secure the grant raise additional funds for worked with Corn Belt from AKC Reunite and equipment and training.

She is greatly missed!

We also had a large poster with a variety of photos – some of Gwen's dogs from the past, her family, pictures of club activities and travel in the past. Many friends wrote notes on the poster with lots of good memories. She has been an active member of PSSC for many years – and is missed.

Please see the next 3 pages for a close-up of the poster.

GCH CH Katon's Flying Tiger v Morgenwald (Ace) was Gwen's current Standard Schnauzer. When she passed, Ace came back to live with Kathy & Penny. In honor of Gwen, Ace was entered in the Veteran Sweepstakes at the Specialty and handled by Penny, dressed in a jacket identical to one of Gwen's favorites. Going Best in Veteran Sweeps was a fitting finish to his show career, which included multiple NOHS Best in Show wins.

Training Show Dogs for Successful Veterinary Visits: A Vet Tech's Perspective

By: Mady Parker, CVT

(Permission granted to print in our newsletter)

Good evening, everyone.

First off, thank you for your dedication-not just to the world of dogs-but to the health, welfare, and performance of these amazing companions.

As a veterinary technician with years of hands-on experience, I can tell you: what you do at home, and during training plays a direct role in how your dogs handle veterinary visits.

Today, I want to offer you some actionable strategies to help your dogs not only tolerate-but succeed at-the vet's office. Because believe it or not, with the right approach, vet visits can become just another competition where your dog performs with ease & confidence!

The Reality of Veterinary Visits

Let's be honest-many dogs, even seasoned champions, don't love the vet. And I get it. Strange smells. Other animals. Cold exam tables. Needles. Thermometers. It's not the environment they're used to!

I see the full range: from dogs that walk in wagging and relaxed, to those that tremble the second they hit the parking lot. And here's what I've noticed: the best outcomes come from dogs who've been trained for these environments-just like they're trained for different sports, competitions, obedience, and grooming.

Why does this matter? Because when your dog is calm and cooperative, three things happen:

1. Exams are safer and more thorough.
2. Vets can make better diagnoses.
3. Your dog recovers from the stress faster-and so do you.

Training Starts Before You Walk Into the Clinic

Preparation doesn't begin in the waiting room. It starts at home, long before your appointment.

1. Desensitization to Handling

Your dogs may be used to being touched-but are they used to being handled like a vet would? That's the difference.

Practice:

- Holding paws firmly for longer than usual, including looking between paw pads.
- Lifting lips and inspecting teeth as if taking dental measurements. - Running hands along the abdomen and lifting the tail.
- Gently restraining them in various positions: lateral recumbency, standing, sitting still.

2. Introduce Vet-like Tools at Home

Bring out a stethoscope, nail clippers, and even simulate injections using a capped marker. The goal isn't to scare-it's to neutralize.

Make it positive. Pair handling with high-value treats. Use praise. Make it a game. Your dog should learn: "When someone looks into my ear with a flashlight and says 'good,' I get cheese."

3. Crate and Car Training

Many vet visits begin with a car ride and a wait in the crate. Practice calm entry and exit. Use verbal cues and food to reward quiet behavior. If your dog gets revved up in the car, that adrenaline is already peaking before the exam begins.

Advocate Like a Pro

As experienced owners, you know your dogs better than anyone. Use that to your advantage when visiting the vet.

1. Communicate Clearly with Staff

Let your vet team know;

- Your pets concerns: Does your dog hate slippery floors? Sudden loud noises? Do they love to chase cats?
- Your training cues: If you use "stand-stay" or "easy," let us know. We'll echo those commands.
- Whether your dog is food- or toy-motivated. That can help us redirect attention during treatments.

2. Bring Familiar Items

A mat, towel, or toy from home can reduce stress. Especially with our dogs, something that smells like your home & safety can comfort them in a new space.

Training Through Positive Reinforcement

1. Cooperative Care Techniques

Start teaching your dog that they control the flow. Use a chin rest behavior, for example. When your dog rests their chin on your hand or a towel, you practice checking/cleaning ears, eyes, or simulate an injection.

2. Practice Mock Vet Visits

You can schedule a Happy Visit with your medical team for practice once you're ready. Prior to that, you can team up with handlers, & even your groomer to simulate real vet visits. Use a neutral location. Have someone role-play a vet: enter the room, wear scrubs, talk in a calm voice, and train however your dog learns best. These rehearsals reduce fear and make the real thing easier.

The Importance of Touch & Trust

In the world, touch is casual. At the vet, touch is often a diagnostic tool & can be uncomfortable.

Your dog must learn the difference-and still trust the process.

As a vet tech, I always watch how a dog reacts to my touch. The difference between a flinch and a lean-in is massive. Dogs who have positive touch training handle needles, blood draws, and x-rays with less stress. They often perform with ease during these procedures.

Special Considerations for Show Dogs

Your dogs have unique challenges:

You may be on the road-meaning new clinics, new smells, and new teams.

They often hide discomfort well, making subtle signs of pain or stress hard to detect.

You, as their primary advocate and trainer, are their constant. The work you put in translates to more accurate diagnoses and a safer, less stressful experience for everyone.

Closing...

To close, let me say this: your dogs are athletes, performers, and companions. You invest in their training, their grooming, their conditioning. Don't let the vet clinic be the one place they feel out of control.

Train for the vet the way you train for the ring. Normalize the experience. Break it down.

Make it rewarding. Make it predictable. Work with your vet team-not just as clients, but as collaborators.

And when your champion stands calmly during a blood draw, tail wagging, eyes steady-that's not just a medical win for me. That's a training victory for both of you.

Thank you for all you do, thank you for loving dogs. Your dogs-and your vet team-appreciate it more than you know.

The PSSC annual picnic will be held on Saturday, July 12 at the home of Don & Diane Kachur. As usual, the club will provide the meat and everyone will bring a dish to share. Watch your email for updates and an opportunity to sign up for food to bring.

RoarEE (CH Katon's Hear the Tiger Roar v Morgenwald) is very proud of her KO kids (Ch Morgenwald's Knockout v Skico). . .

Dodger (Morgenwald's Rhythm of the City V Katon) had a great day on Friday at the Heart of Illinois cluster over Memorial Day weekend. He was shown by his owner, Mary Thome – he is her first show dog and they have limited number of times in the ring. Dodger was Winners Dog / Best of Winners for a 5 point major. Then he was awarded Best of Breed – and topped off the day with a Group 2! What a day for a novice dog and handler!! They are beginning to work together as a team.....and looking good.

That same weekend his sister CessEE (Morgenwald's Recipe for Success v Katon) earned her DCAT title. She is absolutely crazed at the FastCAT trials... she loves it SO much! That added to the list of titles at the end of her name.....now DCAT, ACT1, ACT1J, ACT2J, CGCU, STR, FITB (maybe some day she will focus enough to get a real agility title!)

The SKY's on Fire

In just a little over a month, our girl has been on quite a roll. In 12 shows, she came away with one BIS and 10 group placements with an amazing SEVEN Group placements in a row. This came to 12 BOB's, four Group 1's, two Group 2's, two Group 3's, two Group 4's and her 7th BIS! What an amazing Girl !!!!
