16. Further Description of Important Features. (Continue on reverse if necessary) The configuration, or basic plan, of this house is very similar to the other two house on this private lane (ERI-1735 and 1736). Similar features include the gable-front orientation, entrance through a recessed gable extension, brick chimney located on gable slope opposite the entrance, and utility use of the rear part of the house. A shed roof wing, instead of the gabled wing on the other two houses is attached to the rear gable. It has a large, ramped, cellar entrance		26. Local Contact Person or Organization W. 17. History and Significance In 1870 August Heckerman bought 3.82A. from R. Hubbard on which he built this house, and the Census records of that year show him living here with his wife, two children, and his parents, Ferdinand and Catherine Heckerman. He also owned farm lands to the southeast. He had emigrated from Hanover, Germany and was following his trade of house carpentry. Later, c1876,		27. Other Surveys in Which Included N/A typical of other family wineries on the island and suggestive of its use as such, here. Windows are all 6/6 with aluminum storms, except for single sash, 2 and 3 light windows under the attic eaves. Trim details are limited to frieze, end, and water table boards.

 August went into partnership with Fred Elfers (ERI-1528) to open the island's second grocery or general store on Division St. near Chapel St. (ERI-1626). In competition with The Lodge (ERI-1562), it offered a "free smoker". This venture lasted only a few years for, in 1879, Heckerman sold his share to Elfers and left the island. Otto Dodge bought the house and land from Heckerman. He then sold or transferred it to his son, Charles, who lived here with his new bride, Catherine. Charles Dodge, born on Kelleys Island in 1859, was the eldest son of Otto and Henrietta Dodge, who emigrated from Germany in 1856 and lived in the house immediately east of this one. At age 22 Charles owned 9 acres in grapes and orchards, 2 in pastureland, and 5 in woodlands. Oral tradition indicates that he was a butcher or meat cutter, and that he worked in a butcher shop on Division St. Several sources site a butcher shop operated by Mischler in a building now converted to a residence (ERI-1587). It was probably here that he worked. In 1897 his brother, Otto, Jr., built a new house for him on Ward Rd. (ERI-1675) so that he might be closer to his work. In 1900 the present house was rented to Edward Collins, Jr. who served as an assistant superintendent of his father's west side quarry (ERI-337), later incorporated by the KIL&T Co. Some time after 1920 the house was rented by a member of the Deringer family. It continues to be held by Dodge descendants.
 *Dodge & Kastning bought similar lots immediately to the east in 1872, also from Hubbard.
