ABOUT THE COVER

We've been making our whisky one bottle at a time in the same distillery since 1953. A lot has changed around here, except how we make our whisky.

In a day when distillery's rye was the go-to grain for whisky makers, Bill Samuels, Sr. found the taste he wanted in soft red winter wheat - making it the star of our mash bill.

The limestone shelf near the distillery is key to crafting our unique taste. The pure calcium- and magnesium-rich water makes better drinking water and a better sour mash in which yeast can flourish.
