

WRAPPED in LOVE PROGRAM

Wrapped in Love Mid-Summer Notes

Hello Everyone!

Today was a very exciting day for Wrapped in Love. Our shawl drop-off / yarn pick-up event was a huge success! Thanks to all who participated – your dedication has allowed us to honor donors and their families in the midst of some very challenging times. I am sure our beautiful “made with love” shawls and lap blankets will provide comfort to all who receive them. We collected 114 items over the past few days to be mailed out over the next several weeks.

I am continually amazed by the dedication of our volunteers and at a loss to find words truly deserving of such an amazing group of people. Our program is a success because of your commitment to honoring organ/tissue donation and for your support of our life saving mission. Many of you have gone “above and beyond” in assisting with Wrapped in Love in any way possible, especially during our current circumstances. Just to name a few: taking home dozens of shawls to sew on labels, collecting shawls from several volunteers to bring to our drop-off, picking up items from those who live far away, donating yarn, and consistently creating items! I sincerely appreciate each and every one of you!

A note from a donor family: “We will treasure your handmade throw in memory of my late husband. He’s left a hole that is slowly healing. I will pass it to my daughters monthly for all of us to share. Your wrap will be well hugged and treasured. Thank you!

Here are some photos from the event. Set up and ready and the exchange of shawls & yarn!
