Setting the standards for yesterday, today, and the future.

For over 75 years, the National Model Railroad Association has set the standards of the model railroad industry.

The NMRA was formed in 1935, when model railroading was still in its infancy. Developing standards for manufacturers to promote interchangeability across products, we've had a leading role in helping millions of model railroaders get the most out of their hobby.

Today, we continue to develop and set standards for Digital Command Control (DCC), Large Scale models, and more, offering the same leadership and devotion to the hobby we've had from the beginning. Join Today!
