

Let the Music Play!

Barbara Hurley is your typical late 50's teenager who loves life; Elvis Presley and Rock and Roll. One day, Lee walks in the Malt Shop. Lee is the teenage son of the rival diner owner across the street. He has the classic good looks of all 50's leading men. Everything about him is perfect, his hair, his smile and his singing.

Barbara is immediately attracted to him - and he with her.

Can the young Romeo and Juliet bridge the gap between the two diners, or will Lee confess to Barbara his real intentions for meeting her in the first place? This wonderful musical comedy is filled with 50's and 60's tunes that will take you back to a simpler time with BIGGER hair!
