An investment in a well-researched and executed marketing plan, including up-to-date images, videos and printed support material is paying off for CTM. Taking their industry-recognized brand promise of quality engineering and service to major trade shows this year, has attracted qualified leads who consistently remark on the company's quality products and follow-through.

the power of words

Question:
What is your scheduling system?

Answer:
I use an intuitive priority hierarchy system which enables me to assign schedule deadlines and monitor project status at a glance. By creating an analog matrix, I can update the priority schedule as needed throughout the day. Combined with an "on-deck" status level, each project is given the action needed when required to maintain timely delivery and deadline adherence.

Translation:
I write everything down on a legal pad and use a shelf to arrange projects by deadline.

Trumbull Industries sale flyers is an important part of their ongoing strategic plan. The quarterly publication showcases sale items and a complete product line that includes a multitude of tools, supplies and industrial products. The Spring flyer will be mailing soon. ▶
