

The Foundation In Every Child's Life

The Home and family will always be the foundation to every child's life. A child enters a home empty and without hope, no feeling of belonging. Their lives are broken and fragmented. As foster parents or adoptive parents we become that door of opportunity. A place of peace and rest from a life that had been full of chaos.

Attachment and trauma in a child's life are the root causes that impedes one's ability to succeed in life. When a child feels life is unsafe they form a belief inside of their soul that there is no one they can trust. The child becomes consumed with only themselves and survival becomes all they see.

The family can never be substituted. It is never easy but as parents we must be unconditional in our love, patient and learn to appreciate the small successes in life.

Linda McCaulla