

Louie and the Water God

It is said that once upon a time,
Billy ruled the land
Along with the Water God
And Louie, the King.
And, every morning of their reign,
They'd go out and kill something.
Maybe deer, and maybe lamb,
And maybe human being.

But soon,
They got tired of sharing everything.
And, each one had his own secret thoughts
About being supreme.
Then, Louie and the Water God,
Well, they did see the light.
Unsuspecting Billy
Was to be slain in the shadows of night.

As the time came and went,
No one raised a thumb.
Everyone just sat and grinned
And what was done, was done.
Soon the darkening shadows
Covered the entire land
All fell under the spell
Every child, every woman and man

Then one day in early spring
Everything turned around.
And everything that was up,
Suddenly was down.
And everything that was old,
Suddenly was new.
And Louie and the Water God,
Well, their time was through.
