Gaston Memorial among 'Top 100 Hospitals' Thomson Reuters has named

The "Thomson Reuters 100 Top Hospitals" list is based on overall organizational performance. The business and professional information company evaluated 2,926 short-term, acute-care, non-federal hospitals. Gaston Memorial was among 20 facilities in the large community hospital category — those with 250 or more acute-care beds — named to the list. The 435-bed hospital, owned by Gastonia-based CaroMont Health was the only N.C. hospital to make the list this year. Gaston Memorial is the Charlotte region's fifth-largest hospital.

GMH to build good health partnerships

CaroMont officials want Gaston Memorial Hospital to not just be a place a person goes to when sick, but also a place to go to keep well.

It's tough to stay healthy with a busy life, said Valinda Rutledge, president and CEO of CaroMont Health at a Journey to Partnership and Community Wellness luncheon Friday.

“The only real long term strategy is one that improves overall health,” Rutledge said.
