Saxony Design

JOSHUA CAIN, INTERIOR DESIGNER

JEFF GODBOLD, GENERAL CONTRACTOR

Family Room & Lounge

The co-owners of Saxony Design Build, Joshua Cain and Jeff Godbold, first met at a Pasadena Showcase House of Design years ago when they were both working on the project. Joshua, doing interior design, and Jeff, a general contractor working for the estate's owner, both quickly realized that by forming a team the design concepts coming from Joshua would immediately integrate with Jeff's expertise on costs and construction options and would save the client time and money.

Since that time, Saxony has been working with clients who want the full spectrum of options and creativity coming from one team and centralized management an overall design and build project. They specialize in residential remodels and new construction and often create turn-key residences for their clientele.

This year at the Orange County Philharmonic House of Design, Joshua has designed and furnished the family room, lounge, and terrace off the family room. The spaces are contemporary to fit with the architectural style of the home, but have a rustic flair that makes them both comfortable and livable. The colors in the space evoke the peaceful surroundings that make up Laguna, and are highlighted by a thought-provoking array of accessories and custom details. Many of the pieces were custom-made for the space, including the large sectional, limestone fireplace surround, layered window treatments, and the dyed grass cloth wall-covering. ■
