

Where You Are

*“...and He marked out their appointed times in history and the boundaries of their lands”
(Acts 17:26)*

Over the last few weeks I have been thinking a lot about where I am in life. The last four months have been extremely different from any other time in my life. Many times we get hung up on our current location or situation. Somehow, in the midst of life, we forget it's all about where we are going eternally and that life is actually about how we trust the Lord as we live our life out here on earth.

I get it. Its not always easy to trust Him especially when things take a turn you didn't see coming. But....that turn doesn't change Who He is, or what He is doing in you or through you. God will accomplish His will in your life as you trust Him to do so, but you have to trust Him to do so.

It is your choice to believe God and walk in the truth of His Word. God is able to do far more abundantly than all that you ask or think, according to the power at work within you. And His power is at work within you.

We each have a Kingdom purpose for being where we are. Where you are, is not where I am. My family is not your family. My job isn't your job. You are part of your family, and I am part of my family. There is a Kingdom purpose for why you are where you are, why you belong to the family you do and why you live, work, etc. where you are.

He is very specific about the aspects of His will. It is HE who works in you, both to will and to work for His good pleasure. Even when you can't see it, God's plans are at work, and they are always good. The Bible says that God's will is good, pleasing and perfect (Romans 12:2).

God created you to fulfill a specific role in this world. There is no one else who can do what God has purposely created you to do. The people that are around you, are the people around you! I don't see the people you see. You don't see the people I see you.

Trust in the truth that His will is already set forth carefully through His Word. We are all children of God. He loves you and knows your needs, and He wants you to communicate with Him on a regular basis concerning where you are.
