

Wednesday Word

This is Me

Usually I would already have a topic or something (even if it's only one word) downloaded into my spirit to write about. This time I have no concrete topic. I have been asking the Lord for a few days what He wants me to talk about. The only response I get is Him asking me this question, "What do you want to talk about?" With that I decided to just start writing and trust in the Lord that He will fill my mouth (or in this case guide my fingers) as I simply trust and write.

Some may think this is not of God because they may think that God would not ask such a question as "What do you want to talk about?". My experiences with and in the Lord show me otherwise. He often speaks to me and interacts with me in this way. I will ask a question and He will respond with another question. As far as I can understand at this point, He does this for me to know and see what exactly is in my heart. As of right now, the only thing that is in my heart is seeing people set free.

As I am writing this I am hearing in my spirit, "Tell them who you are." Well...do you have a lifetime? I'm joking but I will give you some tidbits into my personality. The reason is in hopes that someone will truly come into the belief that God loves us ALL exactly where we are.

I have struggled most of my life with who I am; what is my personality at the core. In recent years, as I grow in the Lord my question has been who did God create me to be and even sometimes why did He make me the way I am (just being honest). In my quest of finding who I am in Him many have tried to tell me exactly who I am and that I am not who I think I am. This irritates me (again, being honest). What irritates me is that most of the people who try to tell me who I am are ones who do not know me at all (no matter how much they think they do). There are those in my life who know me better than I know myself. The test is that those who know me better than I know myself DO NOT TELL me who I am but lead me by SHOWING me who I am so that I can see (two examples are the other two writers of this page-smile). The way they lead me (and others like them) is simple. They don't allow me to continue to be spoonfed (no matter how much I resist). They cause me to stretch and grow in the Lord so that He can tell me who I am. They remain obedient to the Lord and share only what He allows them to share with me in my growth. It is because of this that my relationship with the Lord has grown and I am beginning to be confident in who I am in Him.

So...who am I? I am a bright light; I am a voice who speaks and will not be quieted; I am a gentle heart; I am a visionary and a revolutionist; I am a part of a generation that is...

Luke 3:4b-6 - "The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
'Prepare the way of the Lord; Make His paths straight. 5 Every valley shall be filled And every mountain and hill brought low; The crooked places shall be made straight And the rough ways smooth; 6 And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.'"

Learn who you are and be who you are. We are children of the Almighty God; creator of the universe and beyond.

I have posted two videos below that has been a staple in my home for the past few weeks. One is part of the original video that has been spoofed by my children and the other is my daily reminder of how much God loves me. Enjoy and just do it!! Hope you enjoyed getting to know a little piece of me.
