One of my favorite parts about the Internship has been the fellowship. Being a convert to the church, I had never known the amazing love that comes from others who believe in and love Jesus Christ. This Internship has shown me how glorious that love truly is. During first week of the Internship, I passed out in the middle of the Wednesday fasting service. I had never had issues with passing out previously, which made the situation very stressful. After everyone had prayed and began the prayer service again, I noticed people kept looking over and checking on me. When I continued to faint throughout the Internship, people continued to check on me. There were multiple times that they held me up, supported me and caught me. When I was down on the ground or not feeling well, everyone would always gather around to make me feel better. I am eternally grateful to have been given the opportunity to grow close to everyone in the Internship, because I cannot imagine having to go through all of the fear of fainting without them.
