Artists of the Rust Belt Last Minute Market
Industrial Lighting

► New for this year, I've designed a set of industrial style desk lights. Using black pipe and a not-so-patented process to age and stress galvanized metal for that [really] aged look.

With fully functional electric outlets and switch, I designed the original concept for a recent photo shoot. Developed for a conference room style table, mounted to the center and wired through the table. I have created a limited number of these lights with gear style bases in a portable model that will be available this weekend.

The Artists of the Rust Belt Last Minute Market is Sunday, December 10 until 5:00. Located in the old B&O railway station just off Mahoning Avenue in downtown Youngstown. There will be many talented artisans with a variety of items and original art on hand. What a perfect place to get that unique gift on your list, or for yourself. The B&O architecture and old world environment is a special place that will help get you ready for the holiday.

I will have the usual assortment of original drawings, coasters and prints available at my table on the balcony at the Artists of the Rust Belt Last Minute Market, Sunday.
