

AdvantageVM opens its doors for business within the Canadian Industrial Vegetation Management Industry

February 6th, 2017

AdvantageVM - Your preferred choice and familiar face for vegetation management products is proud to announce that they will be providing sales and distribution of products for the upcoming 2017 season.

An Alberta based marketing, sales and distribution company of premium vegetation management products, AdvantageVM services the Canadian VM Industry. Their focus is on one-on-one sales, strong customer service and reliable delivery of goods.

Individually the owners of AdvantageVM have vast experience with products from the registration, in field demo's, marketing and launch within Canada. With a combined 30 years working in the industry, within business, market development, sales, municipal, and product end use, their team is ready to help you with all your vegetation management needs.

"We are excited to open our doors and offer our customers a choice for their weed control needs," said Geoff Thompson (Sales and Distribution – AdvantageVM). He goes on to say "it is our goal to become your preferred choice for vegetation management solutions with our knowledge and attention to customer needs."

AdvantageVM will be offering the complete Bayer CropScience Vegetation Management Herbicide product line. "We are thrilled to be partnering with Bayer CropScience," said Julie Dixon (President – AdvantageVM). "We understand the importance of innovative technology and Bayer CropScience continues to offer products that can help our customers obtain effective, long-lasting results."
