

Round 'Em Up

Rachael Martin 6,26,2019

I'm late getting this posted, so please forgive me! When I went to post, I heard the words "Round 'Em up!" so I was assured that the Lord has this word for our readers today.

When you heard those words, what comes to mind?

For me, it was ok – get it together, make sure all are accounted for and fall into the plan of action. It was a military seriousness, but a ok – this is the day that the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it type of "Round "Em Up".

Lately, I've been seriously pondering "church" life. I want to find a place for our family to gather with other believers, but I don't want "church" as normal. I would like to be able to round up my family and gather them to a place of fellowship but not on a time line or with performance ready songs or programmed sermons and it's just a place where I am. It's a place where in my spirit – I feel a calling to "Round "Em Up" and come to a place where we can all be encouraged and feed on His Word and give glory to our Maker.

I don't know where to start but I believe that in hearing these words, God already has a plan for me and is waiting for me to walk in it. God is no respecter of persons so I believe that He will lead each one of you as well.

It's the middle of the week - - let's "Round 'Em Up" and gather before the Lord and see what His plans are for today. It's a new day and His mercies are new every morning!

Father God – I pray right now for myself and each of our readers, that we would hear Your call and Your word for us today. That we would be obedient to Your Word and to Your voice. I pray that as we gather up our agendas, our plans, our schedules, our families, our friends, our sacrifices of praise and thankfulness, that You would lovingly lead us and guide us in Your direction. That as we seek You out, we will find You and we would be in unity in the place You have us. In Jesus name, Amen.
