

STEAM-Adventure Learning?

Women are often discouraged from risk or difficult subjects like science-technology-engineering-art-math (STEAM). This teaches fear and robs self-reliance, the foundation of confidence. How a woman meets challenge determines how well she masters life...or flying. Aviation reboots personal excellence through adventure-learning.

During the seminar, fears diminish, confidence soars, judgement clarifies, reaction time improves, and passion-based life purpose flows. The experience is unique, effective, applies to all you do...and is a blast!

There are reasons women fly—or become mathematicians, computers, engineers, or scientists. Yet only 6% of pilots are women which is baffling considering aviatrix were once a focus during the Golden Age of Aviation where STEAM and breaking barriers ruled. Let's encourage more women out of the proverbial kitchen and into the cockpit of their life. Full STEAM ahead for females everywhere.

...Enthusiasm is bubbling over me since tending this camp-on-steroids... Yet upon riving home from Smiley Creek, the thought or irase I most often cannot suppress is "I am not one... The WWAA has bumped my mental oughness up a good 10 notches... and my spirit soaring. I'll be back, God willing."

An Exhilaratingly Fun and Freeing Learning Experience

"In the months following the WWAA workshop, I am still awe struck living from a new perspective. Unexpected insights were born in the intimacy, compassion, and warmth of this collaborative learning experience. The choice to adventure with highly motivated and creative women has inspired me to grow in striking new ways and to deconstruct limiting beliefs. Through greater self-awareness, achieved within the safety of a dynamic group, my soul is overflowing with creativity and passion."

...And A Surprise Special Guest Speaker...

“A Once Famous Aviator”

Christina Tindle, LPC,
Bush Pilot, Adventurer,
and Author

Christina’s refreshing training mixes fluid dynamics and natural laws from STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, Math) with positive psychology, cognitive-bias training, mindfulness skills, communication theory, leadership theory, humor, and compassion practice. This fusion creates lasting personal transformation. Experience how this evidence-based and fun approach transforms you into your best self. Learning and personal development accelerate within the context of the safe, supportive, and uplifting environment.

Forget the “no pain, no gain” motto. Participants evolve through laughter, connection, awe, and managed risk-taking. This is a lifelong practice for excellence and joy...it works!

Learn to reframe challenges into positivity that reveal individual strengths and passions to build direction, momentum, happiness, leadership, creativity, health, wealth, and peak performance. Christina’s aim is personal excellence that radiates from inner happiness. Her style is fun and dynamic. Experience a rare epiphany of individual competency and compassion.
