

If you get tetanus, you'll want to treat it fast, cheaply and naturally. So know about Ledum ahead of time.

I have an MD pediatrician and nutritionist colleague who, as an intern with no resources, helplessly held a dying tetanic baby in Africa in her arms. 20 years later this colleague does not vaccinate her patients. After the traumatic death of her patient decades ago, she took a course in homeopathy for infectious disease and all her patients now get healthy, stay healthy and remain fearless in the face of all the vaccine scares.

People mainly get tetanus from the C. tetani bacteria (specifically its toxins) that grow on manure. That's where the goat - specifically its saliva - I contracted it from got it on its wounded horn. Goats don't get vaccinated and I had not had toxoid booster in 20 years.

I cut my finger on a tooth of a goat who we were tube feeding fluids for tetanus. A few days later, after my minor though bloody clean cut was healed and forgotten, my finger worked on loosening up a jaw muscle inside my mouth. I realized why my neck had been freezing up.

An experienced chiropractor in awe at my tight neck muscles, his Energetix line of homeopathics, nutritional supplements to boost my immune system had all been working on my neck for days until I woke up crying in pain with my finger in my mouth a few days after I had cut my finger. I knew then that I had contracted tetanus from the sick kid! My brother, an ND homeopath with a hyperbaric chamber, told me to take the super cheap classical remedy for puncture wounds and tetanus, Homeopathic Ledum, Homeopathic Ledum made my body symptom free in 5 minutes.

End of story? No.

My MD pediatrician colleague told me I was lucky to have found the Ledum; that the anti-toxin provided in hospitals kills a good percentage of patients. Certainly it is likely I would have had a rougher time had I been treated with mainstream medicine for my problem. Breathing tubes... yikes. As an acupuncturist I see many patients a day where mainstream medicine has done as much harm as good. Heroic procedures exist but simple ones work better.

While vaccines save lives and may have saved me a few days of shoulder, neck and jaw pain, simple options need not be overlooked because of the profits for bigPharma.

Classical homeopathy has remedies for virtually every disease. Every hospital in the world could have Ledum as it's cheaper than vaccinating the whole population against tetanus every 5 years. Ledum could save tens of thousands of dying babies whose umbilical cords were cut with dirty knives introducing the tetanus bacteria each year.

Medicine is a business, but it could be more humane in its use of resources. So to big pharma I say, "Thanks but I have found a better way." Maaaaaaaaaa.

No kidding around. Just say "know" about being shot and/or killed. Buy your homeopathy first aid kit today (Ledum is one of the top 25 remedies). I've found some online for $90. More about vaccines to come.
