

SOLOPRODUCTIONS

APRIL 2021

Fascinating ...
Entertaining ...
Light-hearted ... and Thought Provoking.

Mrs. Tidbit, a loquacious and vivacious widow, will tell you all about the goings on, goings out and about, and the ups and downs of living in downtown St. Petersburg in the 1920s.

Friday, April 23 @ 7 pm

LIVE via ZOOM

YOU ARE INVITED to this special ZOOM event.

"For me, it's been a year with relatively no good news, then came this chance to work with senior actors and create Readers Theater shows. It's been better than making news, it's been fun. We have been meeting weekly via zoom workshops and have covered just about every interesting, unusual topic... from tick-tocking crocodiles to the folk tales of Pecos Bill, Calamity Jane and Florida's "swamp thing" as examples. The actors gamely brought into our mix their favorite poems, writers, remembered stories and other commentary. We have found a way to weave it all together into a lively show. I learnt a whole collection of new short stories! In short, we recorded everything and were striving to be entertaining. Hopefully the end results may cause the viewers to pause and marvel about the power of the story. (If acting were easy then everyone would do it!)

Afterall, laughter is still the best of medicines." NC
