Book sale raises $3,500 for shelter

The Randolph County Animal Shelter book sale over the past two Saturdays did well. Fundraising chairwoman Evelyn Smith said they raised around $3,523, which "is fabulous."

The RCAS board of directors thanks all the wonderful volunteers and especially warehouse owner Chris Mitchum for once again "making our book sale a huge success," she said.

She said the children really enjoyed picking out children's books from the recently donated collection.

Saturday, Nov. 2, in concert with the city and Randolph County Chamber of Commerce's efforts to promote the Hwy. 22 yard sale, they will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Highway 22 yard sale will run from New Site through the small towns to Roanoke and to the Georgia line.
