Farewell

Robinson to Terminate His Classic Newsletter

by the staff at the Guccio Times

Jim has had a newsletter in some form for about 10 years now, and only recently he has been able to get it up on a new site for the world to read. We wanted to interview him to get his final words before terminating his newsletter so that he can move on.

GT: So, you've been working on the newsletter for about 10 years?

JR: Yes, I was very excited when the government gave me the computer and I learned how to build a website so that I could share the newsletter with the world. Anyone can do it.

GT: What was your basic motive for the newsletter?

JR: I wanted to encourage people to go soul winning and teach them what soul winning is. This is the Laodecian Age of the church and many people are ignorant of God's commandment to go soul winning. Most churches do not practice it, but it is the most important function of the church.

GT: Do you think you've set some kind example for the American people?

JR: Yes, I would hope they can learn from what I have done here. People today are very much caught up in things that are pleasurable and would never make time to go soul winning. They are ashamed of Jesus Christ and are shy about it, and they feel it would ruin their reputation among their peers. I hope I can get the message across that we all need to be soul winning and it is nothing to be ashamed about.

GT: How did you learn the page layout programs to make the newsletter?

JR: It was a long process of learning by trial and error. To this day I'm not really even good with the programs, and I do not know all of the buttons and commands. I just learned as I went along.

GT: What do you hope to accomplish with this newsletter?

JR: I hope to make people soul conscious and I hope to get people saved by the Plan of Salvation. The newsletter links to the site where there are many pages of material to have a soul winning ministry of your own. It is good, however, to also be a part of your church-wide soul winning.

GT: Can you tell us why you are terminating the newsletter?

JR: Well, Jim has me very busy with the investigative work for your newsletter. I really can not do both newsletters. I find the work for Jim to be challenging. Also, I feel that after 110 issues I have provided enough material for people to be happy with.

GT: Well, we want to thank you for your time. We wish you the best at the publication and popularity of your newsletter.

JR: Thank you very much.
