We have almost doubled our space, so come one, come all, and enjoy relaxing both indoors and out at your friendly neighborhood gathering place...KingsPoint Pub.

TIPS FOR THE BEGINNER

The throw is the most important element of a successful dart player. And yet, most players don't analyze this critical aspect of their dart game. Most people go with what feels most comfortable without thinking about how they could be sabotaging their dart game. The next time you are shooting darts, take a closer look at how other people throw darts. Some rock back and forth, some lunge forward with every throw, some throw quickly and without a follow-through, and others balance on one foot.

Every throw is unique, but here one thing you should know before you develop your dart throw:

1 OF 4 – PROPER ALIGNMENT. The first step to a good throw is aligning your shoulder, elbow and hand in a straight line. All three should point at the board. Some people move their elbow slightly to the left or to the right depending on personal preference, but don't go too far with this movement because it can develop into bad mechanics.

This is just the first of four basic things to consider when trying to find a system that works best for you as a beginner in the world of competitive darts.
