

Good morning!

Amazing how fast the season has gone. Today's clip is one of those we say in all of our pregame conferences – "Protect shooters and see the shooter all the way up and completely back to the floor.' Take a look here.

This is a case where the jump shooter was not given space to land. The defender invaded his space and fouled him because he did not let the shooter land where his momentum would allow him to. This is no different than a player shooting a layup and the defender 'sliding under' after the shooter leaves the floor.

This is another 'obvious' type of foul and reminder as many head into playoff games. Just remember that the calling official has this shooter until back on the floor. Be attentive and don't get caught watching the flight of the ball!

Friday extra: Thanks for all the feedback this season, hopefully some clips generated good discussion! Share your love of this great game with someone new before next season!

Have a great game tonight and a fantastic playoff run or off-season! See you next season, God willing!
