

To the governors, authorities and to all other responsible ones of the army, organisations as well as to heads, leaders, the pope, to all preachers and ministers of all religions and sects and to all human beings of Earth

I am still a boy of 10 years, yet I have cognition of the coming times, which will bring bad and malignant changes over the humanity of Earth, which I predictively write down and spread in the world. This, after clearly recognised events which will come about in the future, because the human beings do not change to the better and increasingly get badly out of the control of the good human nature, become increasingly indifferent and become increasingly estranged from each other, greedier for money and more sectarian. To begin with it must be said that I am not yet entirely educated in language and in writing, for which reason I require the help of my 5 grown and highly educated friends in order to word and write down all that which I, looking out and seeing ahead, have to say and explain according to my sense. I am also thankful for their help, so that my predictions were translated into the English, Italian and French languages and copied, as they can now also be sent to all countries due to their financial expenditure. This being to all national sovereigns and leaders of all countries of the Earth, to all editors of well-known important daily newspapers of all countries, to important economic, religious and private organisations, to army leaders, commentators, the pope, prominent journalists as well as to correspondents, reporters, authorities and radio broadcasters.

Eduard Meier, Niederflachs 1253, Bülach, 6th of June, 1947

Everything which will happen in the future on the Earth from the current time corresponds to a felony which is caused by a from now on tremendously increasing Earth humankind and is completely irresponsibly furthered and tolerated by all governments and is irrationally, selfishly, unisightfully as well as intellectlessly and irrationally driven on by the peoples themselves. The very basis for that will be a tremendous mass of an overpopulation flooding the whole Earth, through whose countless needs an unrestrainable disaster will be conjured up and spread planet-wide. Today I am coining the term 'overpopulation', and this will be carried far into the future, and with all human beings who are still full of intellect and rationality it will become a catchword that cannot be eliminated from the world.

The entire earth humanity, which in future will overflow very quickly, henceforth promotes, as never before, with the cooperation of all completely irresponsible governments of all countries of the Earth, large-scale and extensive destructions on, at and in planet Earth. Annihilations and exterminations will also take place in the entire millionfold world of all life forms. Consequently, many genera and species in nature, their fauna and flora, respectively in the entire plant world, animal world and world of other living creatures of the air, forests, meadows, floodplains, meadows and moors, fields, gardens and swamps, as well as all mountains, springs, streams, lakes, rivers and seas, the Arctic and Antarctic, deserts and primeval forests, and so forth, will be destroyed, annihilated or wiped out. And this will affect more than 1400 species during the period from now until the beginning of the third millennium alone, with various genera and their species being completely wiped out. But even in the new millennium this kind of destruction, annihilation and extinction will continue and, in a few decades, will find a sad continuation with more than 200 further extinctions.

The complete extinction of various species and kinds of birds, mammals, other creatures, vital insects, as well as bees, butterflies, wasps, fish and many other forms of life will mean that the necessary pollination or fertilisation of food plants that are important for human beings can no longer take place, and consequently they will remain fruitless, die off over time and become extinct. Efforts will be made for artificial pollination and direct hand pollination by human beings, but this will not solve the pollination problem of vital food plants in the long run.

Fundamentally, with regard to the procurement of food for Earth's humankind, which is growing in excess, the greatest problem is the procurement of food itself; consequently more and more food plants have to be cultivated, for which, however, more and more fertile land is needed, but this is constantly becoming less and less, precisely the more numerous humanity grows. The growth of humanity also inexorably creates more and more necessary and unnecessary needs which increase with each new human being born. And these needs, which already exist today and have existed since time immemorial, must be fulfilled by hook or by crook, not only today, but even more so in the future, because the coming humanity, which will overpopulate the Earth, will no longer set any limits for itself in all the needs it wants to have, and will be infinitely greedy for acquisition, pleasure, holidays and travel, as well as unconscionably greedy for money and possessions. And in the future, this will have an effect – that gets increasingly badly out of the control of the good human nature – on the entire living conditions and thus also on the feeding of the overpopulation, which is becoming mighty, so that inevitably more and more food will have to be grown, harvested and processed. This is in addition to the fact that in just a few decades all natural foods will no longer suffice, but will have to be chemically produced, which will fill the stomach and satisfy hunger, but will bring illness and suffering.

The natural cultivation of food can only be achieved by plundering, looting and thus slowly destroying and annihilating all land, all meadows, fields, ploughed land, moors, swamps and all bodies of water such as streams, rivers, lakes, ponds and seas and even the mountains and the planet itself. This will happen because, in addition, everything will be contaminated with chemical poisons that are harmful to health, which will not only poison food plants, people and the whole of nature and its life forms, as well as groundwater and all bodies of water, but also the atmosphere. And the result will be that countless human beings will be afflicted with serious ailments and diseases that will not infrequently spread epidemically in the body, such as severe incurable cancers, which will become a widespread affliction in the future.

In addition to the endless increase in the demand for food, more and more commodities and so forth of all kinds will have to be produced in the future in order, on the one hand, to satisfy the greed of the emerging over-mass of humanity and, on the other hand, to expand the industry and economy which will necessarily arise for this purpose and by which alone everything can be guaranteed in the future.

It will be inevitable in the future that the planet, all natural systems, the fauna and flora and also the climate will be largely destroyed with the tremendously increasing excess mass of humanity, under some circumstances to the brink of an imminent collapse, which however will at least lead to complete barrenness or destruction of large areas of land. Earth will already be so overpopulated in a short time that in the future large areas of the Earth will become completely barren due to overexploitation for food which will lead to the irresponsible clearing and complete destruction of huge areas of forests and primeval forests, which basically absorb toxic heat emissions, thereby protecting the climate from warming and also regulating the moisture content of the atmosphere and thus also rainfall, and so forth. The cleared forests and virgin forests, however, whose fertile soil is only 20-30 centimetres on the surface and is then planted by the farmers, and so forth, leaches out after about 2 years and becomes useless uncultivable wasteland; unproductive land. This dries up and decays, causing everything to wilt, die, dry up, yellow, wither and become completely desolate. And this then leads to new clear-cutting of forests and primeval forests – over and over again, whereby the climate is inexorably affected and warmed up more and more.

Everything that will be grown, harvested, processed and sold in the future will soon no longer be done by hard manual labour, but only by machines and equipment as a result of the ever-increasing mass of humanity. And this will soon only be possible through further advanced electronic technologies, based on new inventions that are unthinkable today, which will automate all work as well as processing procedures. For the time being, however, which will continue well into the third millennium, much will still be based on all kinds of motorised machines of all kinds, which will be used for decades and into the new millennium in various fields of work. This begins with horticulture and extends to street cleaning, the entire agricultural sector, to road construction, building construction, mining, oil production and coal mining, and so on and so forth. All of these countless combustion motors, which run day and night and are powered by petroleum-derived fuels, produce enormous tonnages of heat-emitting exhaust fumes. On the one hand, these are harmful to the health of human beings and also to the world of natural life forms, they burden them and cause many to fall ill. On the other hand, however, there is a particularly strong impairment of the climate, which is very serious because a strong unnatural warming of the climate and, as a result of this, a worldwide change occurs, which causes enormous natural catastrophes. Primeval storms and devastating violent storms, floods, landslides, debris flows and huge forest fires or house fires triggered by lightning strikes and so forth will no longer be avoidable worldwide. All of this will not only cause immeasurable financial damage and destruction of human achievements, but also complete destruction of many kinds of values, as well as much misery, distress and sorrow, when many deaths will have to be mourned, wherefore, for example, hundreds of thousands of human beings will already fall victim to natural disasters by the beginning of the third millennium due to the climate change that is already becoming effective. Thereto only a few of all the catastrophes that will occur in this century should be mentioned in advance, such as one in Mexico, which will claim more than 1,900 lives in the coming decade, in 1959, as a result of a hurricane. 11 years later, in 1970, 342,000 people will lose their lives in East Pakistan due to a cyclone, after which only 2 years after that, some 5,900 will be killed in Persia due to a tremendous unusual snowstorm. China will also have to bear much suffering and grief when in 1975 a typhoon will claim about 167,000 lives. Then 5 years later, in 1980, a heat wave of over 42°C will bring death to over 2,400 human beings in the United States of America.

There have been natural disasters at all times, but that which will happen in the future as a result of the human beings' manipulations that are irresponsibly arising and destroy everything due to the exploitation and abuse of the Earth's resources surpasses anything that has ever happened before. The destruction and annihilation of huge parts of the entire nature and its fauna and flora, as well as the rain forests, meadows, fields, farmlands, and so forth, and the water bodies, such as the saltwater Aral Sea in Central Asia, which is about 70,000 square kilometres in size and determines the climate of Europe, will bring severe consequences. In a few decades, namely by the beginning of the third millennium, the Aral Sea will dry up for a long time due to the withdrawal of water, whereby all fish stocks, such as aland, carp, bream, pike-perch, mairénke, Bulatamai barbel and southern nine-spined stickleback, and so forth, along with other forms of life existing near, around and in the lake, will be made extinct.

The entirety of the henceforth emerging and evil climate change, which will cause immense natural catastrophes worldwide in the future, is based, as a result of the origin, solely in the entire world-overflowing mass of humankind, through which everything on and in the planet, as well as in all natural systems, very much in terms of fauna and flora, all waters and everything and everyone will be ruined by the destructive, annihilating and exterminating manipulations. Global warming is caused solely by the constant growth of humankind, namely not only by the aforementioned heat emissions, but primarily by humankind's trouble-maker delusion of having to satisfy innumerable needs of all kinds. Thus, in order to satisfy their needs, everything is directed against the continued existence of the natural order, and thus everything is ruined in a demolishing and eradicating manner through criminal manipulations of the planet, of all of nature and of all living fauna and flora in such a form that the once flourishing life on the entirety of planet Earth is slowly coming to a standstill, just as the climate is warming up through the fault of humankind in such a form that in the future some natural catastrophe will rage somewhere on Earth every day and cause disaster.

In this respect, in the coming future times, everything will be surpassed that has ever occurred before due to the human being himself/herself in terms of destruction, annihilation and extinction since human beings themselves appeared on Earth.

As far as the toxic heat emissions of all working machines are concerned, these are further increased in their mass by the most varied motorised public transport, as well as by the use of private or business motor vehicles, aircraft, ships, working machines, heaters, as well as by the burning of fireworks, rubbish, waste pits, forests, primeval forests, coal seams, peat fields, overgrown dry areas, as well as other fires of all kinds, by lightning, arson or fire clearing. All these factors have a destructive effect on the climate, as does the irresponsible cutting down and burning of square kilometres of rainforests, which, as the actual lungs of the Earth, determine the climate of the entire planet, but which are now becoming increasingly dysfunctional due to the destructive encroachment on forest resources. This is due to the demands regarding the manifold needs of all kinds of the overflowing humanity, which wants to have its needs fulfilled, but which will only be possible by harassing, destroying and annihilatingly damaging planet Earth, all natural systems and nature itself with its fauna and flora as well as the climate. In the future, however, this will not only take place through the millionfold use of machines and vehicles, and so forth, which are operated with combustion engines, because in order to feed the huge mass of the endlessly growing mass of the Earth's population, millions of tons of disease-causing chemical poisons will be thoughtlessly spread into the food crops in the future. And these poisons also contribute a great deal to causing damage to nature and its fauna and flora, which will lead to the destruction and extinction of many genera and species of fauna and flora. And this will steadily increase in proportion to the inexorably increasing mass of humanity. This, as well as all the ever-increasing overpopulation, whose desire for luxury's requirements, for travel, pleasure, vices, addictions and other countless things borne of the craving to have, but especially for the necessary food, will increase. This, however, will be the real reason that global warming and the resulting natural catastrophes and all the destruction that they will cause can come to be. This will happen in addition to the main cause of all destruction, annihilation and extinction that will come about through the criminal destructive manipulations of the overflowing humankind, whereby the true reason for all emerging evils and catastrophes as well as Ausartungen¹ of the future is frankly named.

The bottom line of the origin of the rapidly increasing climate change in the future and all the resulting very bad natural catastrophes, which will undoubtedly inevitably come and cause enormous destruction, devastation and disaster, as well as claiming many human lives, is therefore not simply based on the heat emissions destroying nature and the climate, but fundamentally on the excessive mass of Earth humanity and its all-destructive manipulations of planet Earth, all its natural systems and its fauna and flora. So it is the over-mass of Earth humanity that must be tackled by reducing it quickly and radically, which can only be through a multi-year and worldwide as well as controlled birth stop and, following that, through a hard controlled birth control. Planet Earth is ideally meant for a human population of around 529 million, but cannot cope with more than 2.5 thousand-million human beings in excess, and Earth humanity should adjust to this in order to live in harmony and peace not only for itself, but also in symbiosis with Planet Earth, with all its natural systems, all natural creatures of fauna and flora. This must be without undertaking any destructive, annihilating or exterminating actions. To reiterate, it must be said that by cutting down trees in the forests and rainforests, as well as by eradicating other plants, they will no longer be able to absorb heat emissions. Consequently, these toxic and climate-damaging gases will accumulate in the atmosphere and spread worldwide, not only warming up and damaging the climate, but also inevitably resulting in natural disasters. Monstrous and all-destroying violent storms, primeval rain, hail and snowstorms, sandstorms, as well as the melting of the glaciers and the South and North Poles and the permafrost will already begin at the present time. In the future, however, everything will multiply and increase very rapidly and ever more severely through the begetting of and giving birth to countless new descendants, whereby the super-mass of humanity will drive up all the calamities that will henceforth afflict and dominate the Earth and humanity. And this also results from the machinations of the overflowing humanity due to its needs, which have to be fulfilled by exploiting the planet and nature, its fauna and flora and all its systems, whereby however also the climate, and through the entire machinations everything will be endlessly destroyed. Heat emissions in particular will be important factors in this, but they will be produced by humans and thus drive the climate to the brink of collapse. And in the future Earth humanity will inevitably do this, namely because it will lose its logical thinking as a result of overbreeding and consequently fall prey to stupidity, leading to its death under some circumstances.

From now on, human beings will become more and more indifferent towards themselves as well as towards their fellow human beings, nature, its fauna and flora, all natural systems and towards everything and anything. In the future, quarrels and scurrility will spread more and more, in families as well as on the streets, in schools and everywhere. In particular, murders in families will constantly increase, as well as in a political form, but especially as a result of religious hatred because of refugees who have immigrated or been smuggled into Europe, who belong to or sympathise with an Arab terrorist organisation that is felonious, murderous and fanatical, which has spread around the world. The spreading terrorism, which carries out terrorist attacks on places of worship, believers and on unsuspecting passers-by, as well as on security forces and officials, and so forth, will spread great disaster and create much misery and suffering through increasing attacks and murder. This will particularly affect the Union countries of the newly emerging dictatorship in Europe.

But back again to planet Earth, which will be hollowed out, just as all systems of natural habitats will be largely robbed, irrevocably destroyed and annihilated, just as many forms of life of many kinds and species of fauna and flora will be completely wiped out and masses of human beings will be carried off by suffering, illnesses and rampantly spreading diseases. All habitats will be destroyed by the endlessly increasing needs and the resulting machinations of the rampantly growing Earth humanity which will also cause a climatic catastrophe. The future will bring worldwide atmospheric pollution and atmospheric poisoning through toxic substances of all kinds, such as vehicle exhaust fumes, huge forest and grass fires, through heat emissions of all kinds, and so forth, as well as global warming and climate destruction, and with it a climate shift on all continents, connected with a melting of the poles and all glaciers and the permafrost, whereby dangerous earth methane gases will be released everywhere, as well as in the seabed, because the temperatures of the seas will rise as well as those of the climate.

Everything will be tolerated worldwide by all governments and by all peoples, just as it will be tolerated that in Europe a Union dictatorship will come into being, to which many countries of Europe will succumb and gradually be enslaved by this dictatorship, just as it will be tolerated that lying and treacherous governors and parties, or their members, who have succumbed to low intelligentum, will try to betray neutral Switzerland – their own homeland – to this dictatorship. Only a people's party that emerges in 1971 will openly oppose this monstrous traitorous attempt, which incomprehensibly will not be punished by law, while other parties will crawl away in a completely or half cowardly form. The fact will remain, however, that Switzerland with its highly praised neutrality and freedom is to be forced and sold off into this emerging union dictatorship by treacherous elements as a result of sheer low intelligentum and greed for money.

As a result of an economic breach and disregard for neutrality, Switzerland will unfortunately be guilty of war and murder in foreign countries, namely by selling off war and murder material, weapons, guns and special small aircraft all over the world through the arms industry, with which uprisings, civil wars, terror and wars will be waged and thus masses of human beings murdered and enormous destruction caused! The whole thing corresponds to nothing other than an unparalleled unscrupulousness driven by greed, which was already practised before the beginning and during the last two world wars by various companies and corporations in Switzerland out of egoistical greed for money and will continue to be practised. This, just as war material manufacturers in the United States of America did with the knowledge of the government and will continue to do, whereby Germany and Switzerland in particular will in future stand out feloniously in this respect. Switzerland already supplied war material to the NAZI regime and at the same time to the equally felonious Americans who, addicted to world domination, have always sought to subjugate many states and will therefore continue to do everything to promote strife, rebellion, war, terror and ruin all over the world in order to then invade foreign countries and bind them to themselves – under the guise of providing aid. Also, from the beginning of the third millennium, Switzerland's neutrality will be otherwise disregarded and broken by a so-called people's vote, which will be a narrow one, namely by carrying out armed military 'peace keeping operations' in foreign countries under the guise of 'peace missions' with members of the army equipped with small arms and long guns as well as with machine guns, to which tanks as well as helicopters, and so forth, will also be added. These armed 'peace emissaries', that is to say, Swiss army personnel, will then, if necessary, defend themselves with their weapons and thus do nothing other than kill human beings in foreign countries in the name of Swiss neutrality.

After the Americans' felonious atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the United States of America is striving to become the greatest nuclear power, but soon, through treachery, Russia, China and other states will also have deadly, destructive and all-eliminating nuclear weapons and power plants, capable of contaminating large areas. Well into the third millennium a dangerous nuclear threat will dominate the world, spreading fear and evoking the danger of nuclear war several times during a 'cold peace' period, which, however, can still be fortunately prevented by 'causal foreordinations' during the next 75 years.

America, as it has always done since time immemorial, will try to become the master of the world by interfering militarily in the affairs of other countries, and this will continue unabated in the new millennium. In the new millennium, however, China will also strive to expand worldwide and to seize power. Huge tracts of land will be bought up worldwide by China in the coming decades to grow food for its up to two-thousand-million-strong growing population, just as it will strive to grab Hong Kong and Taiwan again in the new millennium. At the same time, however, the powerful of America with their military will not rest from continuing to create much terribleness all over the world, because they will continue to make themselves 'indispensable' all over the world by military interventions in many countries, with evil armed Gewalt².

In the second decade of the new millennium, the United States of America will enter an epoch of a chaotic period of government by an irrational and conscienceless president who will bring himself to power through dishonest vote-buying schemes, as well as through secret threats, lies, slander and false promises, and who, as a result of his low intellectum, will misuse the years of his presidency to turn large sections of the rulers and peoples of many countries around the world against himself and the United States of America. In the end, he will also make himself unpopular in his own party, as he will also wreak havoc within the country and divide the American population in their reflecting and striving.

² "There is no English word that conveys the true meaning of the German word 'Gewalt'. 'Gewalt' is the brutal execution of elemental might and force, but it is far above all might and all force. 'Gewalt' exists in different and relative forms, one example being a 'gewalttätige Gesinnung' – expression from the character, personality, thoughts, feelings and emotions that shows the inclination to act with Gewalt. When human beings possess or carry out acts of Gewalt and it is not based in logic, then this usually involves violence, brutality, degradation and is terribly destructive." (Meier, BEA 2010, The Goblet of Truth, page XIII, footnote)

From the second decade of the third millennium, Russia and China will be dangerously challenged, in a form that corresponds to low intelligentum, and humiliated by this irrational, truth-falsifying, notorious liar, slanderer and self-aggrandiser, the president of the United States of America who has succumbed to megalomania. Through the actions, behaviour and conduct of this lineless, incompetent and often self-contradictory president who will make a ridiculous fool of himself, hatred against him will increase worldwide, and the people of the United States of America will be exposed to ridicule. This is because they will not defend themselves against the state-owned terror by this criminal president, who will also be responsible, in multiple constitution-breaking forms, for the fact that a rampantly spreading disease raging throughout the world will claim hundreds of thousands of lives in America. This is because he will trivialise and ridicule the life-threatening disease; consequently, no safeguards will be put in place and no measures will be ordered to contain the disease.

This criminal US president will quickly and unrestrainedly distinguish himself by imperiousness and constantly multiplying constitutional violations and a secret and subterranean extreme rule tolerated by his party, and will also be supported by a confused part of the people who glorify him and are of low intelligentum, against which, however, the lawmakers, his party and all his supporters from the people will remain silent and let him go unrestrained during all the years of his disastrous work. Due to this irrational one, unpeace will arise against America all over the world, just as he will have a terrorist effect in his own country and likewise create unpeace and provoke dangers of sedition and war in other countries. So nothing will be done against this irrational one, but on the contrary, he will be unjustly promoted by his party comrades in order to justify his criminal violations of the constitution and to be able to retain political power through all his actions.

Switzerland, too, will feloniously help to promote unrest, strife and war in many countries, because it, too, like America which is mainly in the front line and first and foremost, will make arms deals with felonious states and thereby create unrest, murder, un-freedom and terror in many countries. All in all, it will be profit-greedy murderous transactions that will bring death and misery, destruction and annihilation to tens of millions all over the world, whereby Switzerland will also bear a great deal of the blame with its arms exports. In this respect, however, as explained, America will be in first place, leading the way, until well into the third millennium.

In the future, there will be more and more uprisings and demonstrations, and so forth, in many countries around the world, as well as many wars in which America in particular will interfere unjustifiably and militarily with Gewalt and murder many hundreds of thousands and even millions of human beings. Acting like a world power and world police, the American military will spread death, misery, hardship, murder and mass murder, especially in Asia, out of cowardly anxiety, hatred, a desire for world domination and, one way or another, based on religious delusion. Wherever they invade foreign countries, they will, as they have done since time immemorial, carry out executions of the native peoples, crimes against women, men, youths, children and infants, and spread endless grief and terror. And so the American military – as a look into the future showed that they were equally criminal, as they were in the last world war, against the Japanese – will not only commit physical and psychical Gewalt against women and shoot them summarily after the abuse, as well as other human beings who fall into their hands and are considered enemies, about which the following shall be said predictively as examples: such a thing will happen again in three years' time, i.e., in the next decade, from 1950 to 1953, when a war will be launched in Korea between the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and the Republic of Korea, in the course of which the allied People's Republic of China, on the one hand, and troops of the United Nations, on the other hand, naturally led by the Americans in the front line, will fight out the hostilities.

Shortly after the Korean War, namely from 1955, the American military will wage a murderous unparalleled war with massacres in Vietnam until the mid-1970s, not only raping countless women and murdering them after 'use' as well as men, youths, children and infants, not only shooting them, but also cutting off the heads of many, especially children and infants, with machetes and the like, or downright slaughtering them with their machetes, and so forth. But all this and the knowledge of it is never made public, but is kept so strictly secret and punishable – not only by life imprisonment, but even by the death penalty – because making these massacres known is punishable under American law as treason and as endangering state security.

Now, as far as these coming occurrences of American-military getting badly out of the control of the good human nature in Vietnam are concerned, these will take place during a war that will prevail and rage for many years between North Vietnam and South Vietnam. This, of course, will be with the cooperation of the United States of America, as well as China and will also be supported by the Soviet Union. In this war, too, America will commit enormous crimes against the civilian population in Vietnam – as usual, in a completely conscienceless and humanity-crushing form, as in the case of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945. This will be done by arranging, through the personal initiative of high-ranking military officers and leading government officials, for B-29 bombers – one of whose kind had to make an emergency landing in the 'Langenzinggen' behind the Höragenwald in Bülach/Höri during the last world war – to bombard many villages and towns, as well as their inhabitants, with practically ineradicable oil-based gelatinous incendiary substances – so-called Napalm, as was done for the first time in the last world war, when the Americans dropped napalm bombs on Japanese cities, burning countless human beings alive, which will be done in Vietnam in the future by the completely dehumanised American military. And this will happen around the middle of the 1960s, when American B-29 bomb squadrons will drop about 32,816,000 hectolitres or hundreds of thousands of tons of napalm within a period of 5 months – according to foreign calculations by neutral observers uninvolved in the war – and turn villages and cities into a sea of flames and the human beings into burning torches.

Another felony in this war in Vietnam will be committed by religious fanatic sectarians in government circles who, as a result of religious hatred and racial hatred against human beings of other faiths and races in Vietnam, order the American military, the humanity of which has fallen badly out of the control of the good human nature, to spray multiple chemical poisons from planes and helicopters all around. On the one hand, this is done in such an insidious way as to cause the Vietnamese people to fall ill with various long-term ailments, but on the other hand, it is also done in order to limit the number of births among the Vietnamese. These chemical toxins will cause the foetus in the womb to atrophy or develop severe brain or body deformities, resulting in many thousands of new births with severe birth defects. Furthermore, these chemical toxins will be extremely persistent and will retain their dangerous, destructive and pathogenic effects for a long time. Accordingly, many hundreds of thousands and even several million human beings will fall ill and die of fatal cancer and other ailments when they come into contact with the toxins, be it through touching, drinking water, eating or through the toxins deposited in the soil, which are taken up by new plantings of all growing plants and poison the human beings when they eat them.

The fact and truth of what has been revealed – which has been foreseen by neutral observation – will be treated as top secret by the American government and will be kept secret altogether from the military in America and in Vietnam, whereby however treason will be punished with the severest possible penalty. Consequently, all those involved in this crime in the American government will remain silent for life, as will the producers of these toxins, such as those responsible for the American companies Dow Chemical and Mobay of the Monsanto chain, among others.

As explained, in Vietnam the American military, that is to say, their air force, will completely defoliate and destroy the forests with chemical defoliants in order to make it difficult for the enemy guerrilla movement, Vietcong, to camouflage through the dense jungle and to destroy their food supply, as they will also poison the food fields and their crops. As a result, farmers will no longer be able to harvest crops, and many of the population will go hungry and starve. This, however, will not be enough for the brutally unconscionable American military who has fallen badly out of the control of the good human nature and who despise human life, because in addition they will also torch houses, huts, housing settlements and entire villages and mercilessly shoot numerous inhabitants if they complain about it or want to defend themselves. What America has itself done and thus created disaster, other countries around the world will also allow themselves to do in the future in the same and other matters, such as the fact that the Soviet Union will carry out the first atomic bomb test in Kazakhstan in about 27 months from today in 1949, which, according to stolen American plans sold to the Soviet Union, is already in the process of being replicated at the present time in 1947.

In 1961, the Soviet Union will once again make a name for itself, because then a Soviet military pilot will be the first person on Earth to be officially launched into orbit by a rocket, circle the planet and then return safely to Earth.

In 1965, an assassination attempt will be made on the Persian Emperor, Reza Pahlawi, in Persia, although he survives the attack.

From 1961 onwards, the Soviet orbit around the Earth will result in this event being received extremely unpleasantly by America, which is why more and more intensive work will be done on a space project that has been going on for a long time. In particular, former NAZI engineers, who were responsible for building rockets in the Nazi empire during the World War, will be working on it. These people are already being called upon today by America to build rockets with which to fly to the moon, which will indeed succeed. By pushing this technology, the Soviet Union is not to be granted a second success after its feat of orbiting the Earth with a rocket, which is why everything will be done to outdo the Soviet Union, for which any means, no matter how nasty, will do. And in 22 years, in July 1969, this will lead to America perpetrating the most comprehensive fraud ever on Earth, namely by faking a fictitious moon landing and an astronaut stepping on the moon's surface, which America will deny for all time to come with all available means and the most modern technology. The reason for this deception will simply be to menacingly humiliate the Soviet Union and to make America appear as the world's most advanced, best and technically most developed state, before which the Soviet Union should hold back in fear, because America is militarily supposed to be much better equipped, both offensively and defensively.

In this large-scale fraud, not only the present time will be taken into consideration, but also the future, as a result of which the space programme will continue to be operated strictly and hectically, in order to then fake a breakdown of an announced moon landing during another moon flight, of which there will be several in total. This breakdown is supposed to be such that due to technical failure the announced landing on the moon cannot be carried out; consequently, the rocket will only circle around the moon and return to Earth without having achieved anything. This, however, will correspond to another fraud, because in reality, through the technology that has been further developed since the first fraud, a landing on the moon will be made possible and carried out, with the exact landing tracks, footprints and driving tracks of a lunar vehicle then being set. And this will be done to create 'evidence' that America's alleged 'first' moon landing took place when, with better remote viewing techniques still to come, the lunar surface can also be searched from Earth to centimetre accuracy. This will be the case as well as that if the lunar flights still being carried out in the 1970s are terminated again and then resumed and continued in the third millennium, whereby under certain circumstances the tracks laid can be seen. And when in the new millennium the moon will be approached again, and this then also by China, the new Russia and other countries, then the moon will serve as a starting station for flights to the neighbouring planets of the Earth as well as into the further and deeper area of the solar system. However, this area has nothing to do with space, even if the solar system area is erroneously called space. Correctly speaking, space only begins where the space of the entire solar system ends, whereas only the solar space area exists in the solar system.

That which is further to be predicted is as follows: the great mass of the henceforth rapidly growing Earth-humankind, which will overflow everything in terms of rationality with regard to its growth, will inevitably lead to human beings becoming constantly more unfit for life and thus also more and more unstable with respect to their psyches and more and more frequently succumbing to depression. This fact will become particularly evident in times of crisis, whereby these malignantly fall badly out of the control of the good human nature to a large extent especially when isolation situations occur, such as families or groupings, and so forth, living closely together as a result of which numerous acts of domestic violence and even murder and manslaughter take place and partly even become the order of the day. In the future, many diseases and illnesses that could be alleviated or cured until now will no longer be able to be alleviated or cured, because certain physical-organic germs of ailments and disease will become resistant to individual or all medicines. On the one hand, this will result from an excessive use and application of medicines, whereby a manifold resistance to many germs of suffering and disease will arise and claim many victims. Many ailments and diseases that will arise in the future in a very acute, current and incurable way due to many kinds of poisons that are applied inconsiderately, thoughtlessly and consciencelessly and as a result of profit-seeking pathological craving for gain and profit in the entire agricultural economy, in agriculture and in horticulture, and which poison groundwater, drinking water as well as all vegetables, fruits, berries, mushrooms and herbs, and so forth, will in the future be the cause of death, wasting away, suffering as well as any physical disabilities, as well as psychological damage and so forth.

Planet Earth will be hollowed out in the coming time and will soon be like an image of a Swiss Emmental cheese, in addition to the fact that the entire surface of the Earth will also be destroyed, littered with houses, factories, high-rise cities, mining pits, motorways, sports facilities, solar sails and wind turbines for electricity generation, with deforested destroyed primeval forests, moors and rainforests as well as airfields and, and, and.

Many systems of natural habitats will henceforth, as explained again below, be largely robbed, irrevocably destroyed and annihilated by the greedy needs of the endlessly and irresponsibly increasing Earth population, which will reach many thousands of millions, just as many forms of life of many kinds and species of fauna and flora will be completely wiped out and masses of human beings will be carried off by suffering, ailments and rampantly spreading diseases. All habitats will be destroyed by the endlessly increasing needs and the resulting all-destroying machinations of the rampantly growing Earth humankind, and a climatic catastrophe will also be caused. The future will bring worldwide atmospheric pollution and atmospheric poisoning through toxic substances of all kinds, such as vehicle exhaust fumes, huge forest and grass fires, through heat emissions of all kinds, and so forth, as well as global warming and climate destruction, and with it a climate shift on all continents, connected with a melting of the poles and all glaciers and the permafrost, whereby dangerous earth methane gases will be released everywhere, as well as in the seabed, because the temperatures of the seas will rise as well as those of the climate.

However, there is so much to report on the main important events that will occur in the next decades until the first years of the new third millennium, before a great change in global warming progresses and is triggered to such an extent that worldwide natural climate catastrophes can no longer be stopped, that a large book could be filled with it if the individual events had to be listed one after the other, such as for example, that still in this year 1947, in November, a new type of technical development product is completed in America, which brings a revolutionary advance in so-called semiconductor technology and will in future replace the previous electron tube system, which – as was explained to me by my friend Sfath – corresponds to the first active electronic components that can amplify small electrical signals in a reasonably linear fashion and which founded the electronic age, whereby these components were initially used for radio sets. The technical revolutionary innovation to be completed in November will replace the obsolete electron tube system in the future, namely by the aforementioned new invention or new development, which will be called 'transistor'. This is – according to the explanation – a so-called electronic semiconductor component by means of which low electrical currents and voltages can be controlled. This new 'transistor' technology will henceforth lead to the creation of many new types of electronic apparatuses, devices, measuring instruments, tools, as well as control systems for instruments, machines, aircraft, vehicles and missiles. Furthermore, the consequence will be that the entire electronic long-distance communication technology will in time be combined by these 'transistors' with a further electro-technical invention and revolutionised by this into a further valuable innovation.

Another noteworthy event will occur about 15 months later, on Friday, 4 February 1949, when an attempt on the life of the Persian Emperor Reza Pahlawi is made in Tehran and he is wounded by several shots, but will survive the attempt on his life. In addition to many very unpleasant political, warlike and human-contemptuous as well as natural catastrophes around the world up to the year 1957, the negotiators and representatives of the states of Italy, Germany, Luxembourg, Holland, Belgium and France will negotiate and decide in Rome in March 1957 on a merger of European states to form a so-called 'European Economic Community' (EEC). However, this will already include a devious idea of secretly laying the first foundation stone, through which, on the path of a common economic policy, an integration of all European states into an already secretly planned dictatorial European Union is to be the ultimate culmination point.

This will begin in 1959, when miniaturised electronic circuits and so-called microprocessors will be invented, which will be very small and measure less than 1 square centimetre. Consequently – according to the informative explanations – from 1968 onwards, these products will be manufactured in large quantities using a semiconductor material, and the newly developed circuitry will also be integrated into completely new devices for information and communication technology, and so forth. The whole thing will then – also according to precise detailed explanations and, moreover, future forecasts – lead to far-reaching wireless telecommunication technology for everyone, whereby in the course of the next decades into the third millennium, every person will, so to speak, carry a small pocket communication device the size of about 5x10x1cm with him or her, with which he or she will be able to telecommunicate anywhere around the world.

In the future, evil and sinister terrorist machinations will arise especially in religious-sectarian terrorism-delusion and neo-Nazi-group-delusion, as well as new large and widespread religious sects. They will also dominate countless human beings and the world of those who believe in them and in a god, as they will also murder human beings in their fanaticism, commit mass murders and commit other criminal acts characterised by Gewalt, and acts contemptuous of every human life, and other felonious acts. This will be as it already happened in ancient and other old times and especially in the Middle Ages, when the epidemic of persecution and murder of witches allegedly associated with a devil was rampant and many innocent ones were cruelly tortured, beheaded by the sword or burnt alive at the stake. And in this regard, the sameness should be remembered when, in the mid-1960s, countless equally innocent human beings are burned by America and its army in Vietnam like in the witch hunts – real witches had nothing to do with a devil or Beelzebub or with fairies and spirits, but they were usually herbalists who helped human beings with their knowledge and herbs.

The original term 'witch' is described in mythology in Wikipedia in the following form:

Wikipedia 2020: This article is about witches. For other meanings of witch or witches, see Witches, for the car brand witch, see Witch (car brand).

In fairy tales, myths and popular belief, a witch is a woman endowed with magical powers who can cast harmful spells.

In European culture, from the late Middle Ages onwards, they were classically seen in terms of a connection in the form of a pact or a love affair with demons or the devil, with other criteria also being added.

The term is also used as a derogatory term or swear word for a malicious, quarrelsome, unpleasant or ugly female person.

In classical antiquity, 'witches' emerge as sorcerous human women, such as Kirke and Medea, who could supposedly enchant human beings and animals with magic and poisons. In the Fasti of Strigae, Ovid told of, anthropomorphic, witch-like female figures; and Horace invented Canidia, a fictitious witch, who in this story, however, already wants to perform the familiar terminus of infanticide in order to brew a love potion. At the time of the witch hunts, the term witch or sorcerer was occasionally applied as a foreign term to women and men who were persecuted on the charge of sorcery ('witchcraft'). Later, it became generally established, especially in the scientific study of the phenomenon of 'witch hunts'.

For the application of the term to men as witches ('sorcerers' or 'warlocks'), see also witches/sorcerer.

Many murders and mass murders will also take place around the world in the coming time due to a newly spreading sectarian delusion, which will carry itself far into the third millennium and make especially young people prisoners of the belief and slaves to the belief, as a result of which they – as has been the case with all believers since time immemorial – give up their own thinking, consideration, deciding and acting and consequently deteriorate in their intelligentum. And the more time passes, the more this will have the consequence that these human beings will henceforth over time become more and more the slaves of others, who will keep repeating religious-sectarian as well as political platitudes to them until they give up their sense of reality and truth, against reason and rationality, and become believers in religious, sectarian and political lies, slander and seduction and thus become dependent on and subordinate to that which they are persuaded to believe. And this will already come in a short time, for it will begin in a blatant way already in the decade of the 1980s, for then everything and anything will change negatively and destructively in a radicalising way in the entire earthly sphere to evil and bad, and this also with regard to human beings' behaviour in terms of low intelligentum, inadequacy, irresponsibility and multiple incapacity. This will also affect those human beings who, as rulers, should lead their peoples, but who are not capable of doing so and will not know what to do effectively to protect and keep the peoples healthy when the great rampantly spreading disease rages in the second decade of the third millennium and claims millions of lives. Like them, the rulers, countless human beings of all nations will become bondmen and bondwomen of others, through whom they will be abused, influenced and willy-nilly directed and exploited according to the ideas, conceptions and desires of others. And just as countless human beings in the future will fall prey to the greed for money of others and themselves, will no longer be able to control their own desires and will no longer be able to learn anything important for life, so it will also be with their ability to live, their stability in life, their dignity in life, their joy in life, their fulfilment in life and their power of action in life. All the values that are important in this respect are no longer learned from childhood onwards through upbringing and self-education, because the parents no longer know these educational necessities and consequently fail in terms of educating/upbringing. As a result, the offspring will become more and more incapable of living in the future, so that, on the one hand, when they fall into special situations, become old or are confronted with any problems, they know neither in nor out, because they are bereft of logical thinking. As a result of all this, in the coming times countless human beings will avoid reality and life and commit suicide, namely both young and old and even children. Many will spend their lives vegetating in pathological craving and misery due to alcohol, natural or chemical drugs, and so forth, only to die miserably as a result. Others will carelessly engage in life-threatening sports, only to lose their lives one day unexpectedly as a result of imprudence, carelessness or a special causal foreordination. But in the future there will be many human beings of all ages who, as a result of their failure to cope with life, will kill themselves or allow themselves to be killed, precisely by taking their own lives – driven by cowardice – i.e., by murdering themselves or somehow allowing themselves to be murdered, which, starting today, will become possible in just a few decades through a completely legal, lawfully permitted business-like assisted suicide. Ahead in all this will be Switzerland, which for human beings – who want to kill themselves as willing suiciding ones – is developing into a 'gold place', that is to say, an Eldorado of assisted suicide, attracting suicidal ones from all over the world like a stinking cheese attracts masses of flies.

The suicide support organisations that will emerge in the future and enrich themselves from those willing to suicide and satisfy their lust for murder, can also be compared with the religious-sectarian murder and mass murder behaviour that began in early times and has claimed many human victims. And in this respect, some of the evil that will take place in the coming decades should also be mentioned, whereby, however, we shall begin with some of that which already occurred in early India and serves as an introduction regarding the goddess Kali. To explain this requires a little history, which I may yet be able to bring together:

Kali, 'The Black One', is a major goddess of death and destruction in Hinduism, but she also embodies time and nature, as well as renewal. In Indian mythology, she represents an embodiment of wrath and is said to have sprung from the forehead of another god and then filled the universe with her terrible roar. In other Indian myths, she is the dark side of the deity Parvati and one of the deity Mahavidya. In Hindu folklore, Kali is considered one of those few goddesses who are also said to grant wishes. A mythological story in turn tells of a battle with a demon Raktabija, who threatened to unbalance the world. Whenever he was injured and lost a limb or a drop of blood that fell to the earth, a second Raktabija was said to have emerged from it, thus making him invincible. This caused the gods distress and they turned to the mother goddess Devi, who manifested herself as Kali and attacked the demon, cutting off its head and drinking all its blood, thus destroying Raktabija. In addition, mythology teaches that Kali is the goddess of complete destruction, but on the other hand, she is also the Mother Earth into which everything returns, and it teaches that she is always concerned that nothing is lost.

Well, there is a story that the so-called Kali sect arose from this mythology, and its members wore a silk scarf and used it to murder human beings who were hostile to them or who had been commissioned to treacherously murder them, by strangulating them with the silk scarf. And as was explained to me in 1945 by 2 'former' Kali followers, this sect of murderers is said to secretly still exist up to the present day, just as everything is said to still be practised within the framework mentioned, to which I was shown as proof a man strangled with a silk scarf and told that since the emergence of the Kali sect 2000 years ago or so, more than 2 million human beings are said to have been murdered in the manner mentioned. Whether the whole thing was simply staged or not, I unfortunately could not find out.

Well, true or not true, there is some evidence of other murders in other early times, because religious-sectarian murders and massacres took place everywhere, even in all religions and sects, especially in Christianity, for example by the Crusaders, when they were called upon by Pope Urban II for the first Christian Crusade in 1095 for the conquest of Palestine, but only in the following year did everything begin in the name of Christ with armed laymen – declared as a pilgrimage. Several armies of knights from Italy, France and Germany joined in, however, and on their war campaign from Europe to Palestine they committed tremendous inhumane massacres, crimes, physical and psychological Gewalt and pillages, as well as other shameful acts of Gewalt – as witnesses could observe. The crusade ended in 1099 when Jerusalem was taken by the crusader army that mercilessly murdered in the name of Jesus.

In the Middle Ages, a sect also achieved dubious fame in Arabia, namely the radical and devious Shiite Islamic assassin secret society of the Nizarite denomination, alias Ismaili murder gang, assassin sect and assassin-for-hire sect. Their religiously fanatical culmination point was to murder the leaders of their enemies, but they were not content with that, because often they only murdered out of pure lust or for the sake of profit, as many Christian sects and individual Christian believers have done since the emergence of Christianity as a result of their fanatical belief-delusion.

In relation to the confused Christ delusion, the devil delusion also arose early on, the Christian belief-delusion that human beings were either in the service of Satan and would engage in sexual practices with him, such as, for example, mainly women, who were accused of being witches and were shamefully murdered. Others in turn, again especially women, were and continue to be accused well into the third millennium of being personally possessed by the devil himself and were mistreated and even killed for it. Such an event will happen, of all things, when I, as an adult man, will live for a short time in Switzerland with my parents in Ringwil in 1966. It will then transpire that a Christian sect will settle in this town and carry out exorcisms and beat a 17-year-old girl to death.

(Note from Wikipedia: Today is the 50th anniversary of the murder of Bernadette Hasler. The 17-year-old had been beaten to death by six members of a cult during an exorcism. 22 years later, the main perpetrator killed again.)

It is 1966 when the tranquil Ringwil was startled by a heinous piece of news. In a small, somewhat remote chalet above the hamlet of Hinwil, 17-year-old Bernadette Hasler had died by means of Gewalt in the night of 14 to 15 May. "The corpse showed severe injuries on various parts of the body, including the buttocks and genitals, which must have been caused by blunt instruments," reported the 'Zürcher Oberländer' five days after the crime...

At a press conference in Zurich, the cantonal police, among others, had previously given details about the circumstances of death and perpetrators who could already be arrested. And because of the nationality of the two main perpetrators, editors of German newspapers and magazines, such as 'Spiegel' and 'Die Zeit', soon reported on little Ringwil.

So this is how the public learned that Bernadette Hasler had died after an exorcism by a doomsday cult rampant in the shadow of Catholicism – beaten to death by five adult men and one woman. The sect called itself the International Family Community for the Promotion of Peace and had been founded in the German town of Singen by the excommunicated Father, Josef Stocker (the 'Holy Father'), and his assistant, Magdalena Kohler, (the 'Holy Mother'). It was also Stocker and Kohler who sealed the death of Bernadette Hasler on that ominous night.

Clothes washed by herself

Because they were wanted in Germany for a fraud case, 59-year-old Stocker and 52-year-old Kohler had fled to Switzerland. In the chalet in Ringwil, which ostensibly served as a holiday home for a Barmettler family from Wangen near Olten and a greengrocer from Rüti, the cult leaders set up their new meeting place.

The 17-year-old Bernadette, whose parents lived in Hellikon in the canton of Aargau and had succumbed to the sect, lived in Germany for about 4 years in an educational home that the sect still ran there. Several times, girls were brought from Germany to Ringwil if they had not done as they were told, wrote 'Die Zeit' on 22 July 1966. And this is what happened to Bernadette.

Because she allegedly caused 'educational difficulties' and had made 'lewd speeches', the three brothers of the Barmettler family, the businessman from Rüti and the two cult leaders beat Bernadette for an hour on that May night with walking sticks, a plastic pipe and a riding whip. They beat the girl until her subcutaneous fatty tissue was shattered and did not stop their torture afterwards: "After the defendant Magdalena Kohler (the 'holy mother') had pushed her into the bathtub in her precarious condition and showered her because her clothes were smeared with excrement, Bernadette Hasler had to wash out her clothes in the stream flowing past the chalet on her instructions, for which the defendant Hans Barmettler shone a torch on her," writes Walter Matthias Diggelmann in his book 'Witch Trial – The Exorcists of Ringwil'. The author from Mönchaltorf, who died in 1979, had written the book in 1969 about the crime, the course of the trial, the life and the psychological development of the accused.

When the adults went to check on the girl in the morning, she was dead, dead from a fat embolism of the lungs that had occurred as a result of the disintegration of her tissues.

The World Talked about Ringwil

No one in Ringwil was aware of the torment Bernadette Hasler suffered that night. The residents only learned about it from the newspaper. "It was a shock for all of us," says someone from Ringwil who does not want to read his name in the newspaper. "We were taken by complete surprise. We didn't even know that members of a cult were coming and going in the chalet," he says. Peter Schmidt from Ringwil also remembers the time well. "It was a big thing. We were all very concerned at the beginning. We couldn't believe that something like this could happen in our farming village," says the long-term member of the Hinwil Reformed Church Council.

Soon, not only the domestic but also the foreign newspapers were filled with articles about the deed. "Suddenly the whole world was talking about Ringwil. I was 23 years old and went on holiday to the south of France with my colleagues a few weeks after the crime. One of them was very ashamed to say on the trip that we came from Ringwil," says Schmidt. And the other person from Ringwil also remembers: "At the WK, the other recruits talked to me about the case," he says.

The fact that no one from the village itself had anything to do with the crime helped the residents of the hamlet to come to terms with the case all these years. "No one had really known the people from the holiday home settlement up there. The houses were remote and the residents didn't associate with us," Schmidt says. "We hadn't known the girl, and five of the six perpetrators were strangers. Even the greengrocer who took part in the exorcism was from Rüti, and was not a local. He was not one of us." Schmidt remembers well, however, that people stopped buying from him.

"His name was a household word."

"The hatred for him was great," says the other Ringwil resident. So much so that the businessman's chalet was set on fire twice in a row after the crime. "While there was only little damage to the house the first time, it burned like crazy the second time," recalls the former constable of the Hinwil fire brigade, who was himself involved in the extinguishing work at the time. The hatred was apparently also so great that today his family members are by no means associated with what happened and do not want to comment on it. God knows they had suffered enough in the past, they said.

While the businessman's family struggled with the situation for a very long time, the people of Ringwil themselves eventually closed the case. To say that the crime changed the hamlet forever would therefore be wrong. "We were stunned, but at some point it was over," says Schmidt.

Neither shame nor remorse

In January and February 1969, the trial of the perpetrators took place in the jury courtroom in Zurich. The newspapers wrote of the 'last witch trial', at which the 'devils of Ringwil' (according to 'Die Zeit') explained their deed to the jury. They had, everyone said, not wanted to hit the girl, but only Satan. "The sinful girl did not react to the beating with crying or screaming because she did not feel the beating, because the beating hit the devil," Magdalena Kohler told the jury, according to writer Diggelmann. While Kohler showed neither remorse nor shame and also made no admission of guilt, Josef Stocker promised on behalf of all the accused: "Today I consider my behaviour to be an aberration that I will never commit again. I will make sure that there will never be any more beatings in my neighbourhood".

Kohler and Stocker were each sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment, 15 years' expulsion from the country and loss of civil rights for five years, the businessman from Rütli to four years' imprisonment and the Barmettler brothers to three years' imprisonment each.

The drama repeats itself

The ten years in prison did not change Magdalena Kohler: after her release, she continued where she had left off. At the end of October 1988, she stood trial again, this time in Constance. After serving her sentence, she had been expelled from Switzerland and then returned to Singen, where she continued to be venerated as a 'Holy Mother' by the cult followers – including the senior Anna Wermuthäuser.

For almost five years, Magdalena Kohler, who was 73 years old by then, together with her sister Hildegard Röller, tortured the pensioner Wermuthäuser in the context of exorcisms, as the 'Spiegel' wrote in October 1988. For years, the sisters kicked Wermuthäuser with their knees and beat her with the flat of their hands and a carpet beater.

Thus the drama that had taken place in Ringwil was repeated in Singen: In the night of 6 to 7 February 1988, the 66-year-old devout woman, who barely weighed 40 kilos, died of internal bleeding.

In the times to come, many things will continue to happen in the same frame, as will happen, for example, 31 years from today, in 1978, in Guyana, where a cult leader will order a mass suicide in a settlement for his believers who have fallen for him, and will also have a mass murder committed by assassins, whereby almost 1,000 believing cult followers will die as a result of their delusional belief in a Christian God and Christian Saviour. But this, too, will be only a small episode in the deadly instances of getting badly out of the control of the good human nature on the part of all religious-sectarian belief, which will again spread increasingly worldwide in just a few decades.

In 1994, too, a radically world-rejecting, internationally active solar secret society will make itself known in Switzerland through collective suicide, whereby about 50 human beings will fall victim to the sectarian belief-delusion. This, together with other identical or similar occurrences, will happen all over the world from now until then and even after the above-mentioned events of 1994 until far into the future of the third millennium.

What remains to be said is that from now on, as a result of the tremendous growth of the Earth's humankind, disasters will shake the world as never before, such as rampant misery, hardship, wars and famines on an unparalleled scale.

In the future, raging rampantly spreading diseases will arise worldwide, as will already be the case in the coming decades with regard to various types of rampantly spreading diseases from Africa and Asia, after which in the second decade of the new millennium, all around the world, a human-made rampantly spreading disease will overall claim the lives of not only hundreds of thousands, but beyond the million mark.

Thousands of deaths will already be claimed at the beginning of the new millennium when, through the fault of an irresponsible, high-handed as well as a German governor of low intelligentum, reckless refugee migrations from Africa, the Orient and Asia will be triggered and tens of thousands of deaths will result from these refugee waves. Thousands of dead will drown in the Mediterranean, many will drift away in the sea, sink and never be found again. And this will be at the time when in Turkey a religious fanatic will have risen as a presidential dictator through fraud and will again overrule the freedom and order created by the founder of Turkey, Kemal Atatürk, and enforce new sectarian regulations.

Before the end of this century, a fanatical religious-sectarian terrorism will emerge in the Orient, emanating from Islam, which has already been mentioned, called the 'Islamic State', which will bring death, terror, disaster and destruction worldwide far into the third millennium and in malicious forms that will have fallen badly out of the control of the good human nature.

In addition, it should be explained that in the new millennium this terrorist organisation will spread rapidly around the world and will remain active for a very long time as a world-wide and completely fanatical extreme-religious-sectarian terror-radicalism that has gotten badly out of the control of the good human nature, with countless assassinations, threats and murders. Torture, misery, deaths, felonies, destruction, hardship, endangering lives, murders and suicide attacks, threats, explosives attacks, physical and psychological Gewalt and a variety of terribleness will remain the terrorist métier of the 'Islamic State' for decades into the new millennium. All the main things will – as mentioned – spread all over the world, but especially in the whole European area and in the countries of the Union dictatorship that is yet to be founded. This dictatorship will gradually rise above and spread over all its Union members, whereby only little by little will the individual dictatorship member countries then recognise the true evil and timidly fight back. Everything that is to come from today onwards will bring immense disadvantages to all countries of Earth, to the whole world itself, that is to say, to the entire planet, to nature and its fauna and flora, to the entire natural systems, to the atmosphere and especially to the climate, which is already slowly warming up. In the future, and especially from the beginning of the third millennium, more and more frequent and natural catastrophes that are completely getting badly out of control will occur and will offer Earth humanity a nasty future that it will no longer be able to control. The entire earthly world view, the characters of Earth human beings, their mentalities and thus also their modes of behaviour, their sense of responsibility as well as their personalities and their viability and durability of life will change into that which is evil, unsatisfied, neglectful, unpeaceful, indifferent, greedy, and malicious.

Switzerland will not be spared either, because due to the naivety of the government and security services and so forth, as well as the know-it-alls, the danger of the terrorism threatening the country will not be recognised. This will be, just as the religious-believing false humanitarians in the third millennium will contribute a lot to the emerging disaster in the whole of Europe, because out of their false religious humanity they will open doors and gates for hundreds and thousands of terrorists of both sexes, who have gotten badly out of the control of the good human nature, in order to give them a 'safe haven', which, however, will then be rewarded with mischief, murder, Gewalt and felony.

Many from the growing terrorist organisation who are obsessed by religious delusion will secretly sneak into many countries, or pretend to be refugees, or openly enter Europe as visitors or immigrants and spread disaster, death and destruction. Even Switzerland will not be spared from such immigrants, nor will it be spared, as will be the case in all dictatorship countries in Europe, also from the countries' own male and female citizens converting to Islam as a result of a change of faith or out of a desire for adventure or murder.

In addition to other countries on Earth, Europe in particular will be strongly affected by that, for which the ruler of Germany, who is of low intelligentum, and all those who support her will be responsible, but as usual will not be called to account. In particular, however, many Europeans themselves will be involved in this, mainly unrealistic young people and adults who will turn to and join the terrorist organisation and its faith, which will emerge from Islam in a form that completely gets badly out of the control of the good human nature.

In the coming decades, the irrationality of human beings will lead to the creation of an enormous mass of earthly humankind, which will reach 10 thousand-million by the middle of the first century of the next millennium. In the coming decades, a very large over-mass of human beings will be born at breakneck speed and the Earth will be criminally overpopulated, freely according to the Bible lie, according to which a non-existent 'dear God' is supposed to have said 'go forth and multiply'. A lie through which human beings fall prey to a sick delusion and believe this nonsense, trust in it in low intelligentum and are blind to reality and truth. In the future, too, they will follow the preached lies and terrorise, murder, kill and torture for it. Blindly following their false and murderous religious teachings, the believers afflicted by a religious and sectarian delusion of lies bring their belief disaster over the whole world.

As has been the case since time immemorial, the believers follow religions and sects – because they do not think and are of low intelligentum – and they will continue to do so in the future and follow all evil religious and sectarian lies. The believers listen, as they have done since time immemorial, also in the future to completely irrational and conscienceless sectarian do-gooders, conspirators and religious terrorist fanatics of belief who build up terrorist armies and destruction squads whose members and followers, through their belief delusion, become murder machines which become conscienceless, who will kill innocent human beings and cause destruction as organised murder squads, splinter groups or fanatical individual perpetrators. And this will be the future of Earth humanity, for deliberately or indiscriminately disaster, murder and destruction, drug addiction, criminality, felony and all kinds of the human being getting very badly out of the control of the good human nature will be spread unrestrainedly on Earth, because in 40 years the great chaos epoch will begin on the whole Earth, which in the third millennium will gain anarchistic features and open doors and gates to lawlessness, because the knowledge of honour and dignity will be lost among the Earth human beings, they will lose their prudence and their ability to discern as well as their sense for right decisions, because as a result of the loss of their intellect and rationality, they will also lose their ability to think and will direct their desires only towards various addictions, such as drugs of all kinds, festivities, pleasures, money, travel, football, sport and disharmonious ruckus which will be called music, and so forth.

With the tremendously growing over-mass of humanity, the planet, all natural systems, fauna and flora and also the climate will be largely destroyed and driven to the brink of imminent total annihilation. The Earth will already be overpopulated in a short time and in the future the destruction of nature, fauna, flora and climate will rapidly advance, in that by begetting and giving birth to countless new descendants, the over-mass of humanity will drive up all the terribleness that will henceforth dominate Earth and humanity. And this results from the machinations of the overflowing humanity as a result of its needs, which must be fulfilled by exploiting the planet and nature, its fauna and flora and all its systems, whereby the climate will also be affected and everything will be endlessly destroyed to a large extent by the entire machinations, especially by anthropogenic heat emissions which are produced and which will drive the climate almost into collapse. And this is what Earth's humankind will do in the future, namely because, as a result of overbreeding, it will lose its logical thinking, thus falling prey to low intelligentum and possibly causing its own death.

According to detailed teaching, anthropogenic heat emissions are toxic gases released by human beings, along with other and also natural emissions, which spread in the atmosphere and form the most important cause of a warming impairment of the climate, resulting in climate change. According to the teaching, anthropogenic, that is to say, human-induced emission effects, have been negatively affecting the atmosphere and the climate for centuries, such as due to large-scale fires of all kinds, cooking and heating with materials that produce highly toxic exhaust gases, and so forth. The modern era – which according to teachings began in 1844, and with it a tremendous and rapid development of technology – brings with it that heat emissions have been increasing since then on, and at an ever faster and more extensive rate in relation to the growing population of the Earth.

The more and more extensively occurring and increasingly rapid increase in anthropogenic heat emissions, which mainly consist of carbon dioxide (Note Billy, 2020 = CO₂: Carbon dioxide is a chemical compound of carbon and oxygen and forms an incombustible, acidic, colourless and poisonous gas.) and oxygen, will not only cause tremendous turmoil in the climate, but will also transform or alter it in such a form and bring about a change that will cause worldwide destruction, annihilation and also natural extinctions of various species and types of fauna and flora on Earth worldwide. First and foremost, however, the Earth's atmosphere will be affected, namely by thousands of millions of tons of exhaust fumes from countless heating systems that run on wood, coal and later on oil and petroleum. However, innumerable work machines and vehicles, aeroplanes, small to gigantic ships and all kinds of sports vehicles will henceforth contribute to the pollution of the air and the damage to the climate, which will bring deadly disaster and endless destruction, both for humankind itself and for the whole of nature, its fauna, flora and all natural systems in general. With climate change, as it will be trivially called, due to the fault of Earth humanity as a result of its over-massing in many thousands of millions and its damaging and all-destroying, destructive manipulations – that are completely getting very badly out of the control of the good human nature – of the planet and all its natural systems, a zonal cooling or warming is already taking place today, beginning in 1947, which will continue for varying lengths of time. Already this abnormally hot summer this year, as here in Niederflachs/Bülach the thermometer, along with two others in different places, is currently reading 46.8 degrees directly in the sun, is a harbinger of the coming rapid climate changes on Earth, which will affect all four climate zones of the planet. So, in the course of the coming times, far into the future of the third and fourth millennium, changes and conditions bordering on the primeval will take place in every climate, which are as follows:

Arctic climate zone (cold zone)

Moderate Climate Zone (middle Zone)

Equatorial climate zone (belt zone)

Antarctic climate zone (cold zone)

The coming anthropogenic destruction, that is to say, that brought forth by Earth humankind in a form that is characterised by Gewalt, through unscrupulous and irresponsible manipulation of the planet, nature, its fauna and flora and all natural systems, will have an effect on all regions of the world. The ice of the polar caps, the Arctic and the Antarctic will also melt rapidly, turning streams and rivers into raging, destructive and deadly torrents together with rainstorms, and lakes and sea levels will rise, sweeping much inhabited and fertile land into the wild and raging floods. In various regions, extreme weather events and increasing precipitation will occur more and more frequently, while elsewhere ever-increasing cold spells with very low temperatures will arise just as destructively and deadly, as in other areas extreme droughts will arise due to tremendous heat spells. And all these events, which arise and will arise in the future because of the fault of the human being as a result of their overpopulation, will no longer be able to be stopped, because no one will listen to the warnings and predictions; consequently, all the disaster that was preannounced will take its course and bring many deaths, destruction, annihilation and extermination as well as much hardship, suffering, great sorrow and misery of all kinds.
