

Writer's Wordshop

A writing practice for writers of all genres

Vol. 1, No. 2

Postcards from the Edge

The images in this writing practice are vintage postcards and once-upon-a-time they had a story to tell --- what is the story each of these postcards is on the edge of telling?

You are a writer, a spinner of tales, and the creator of new worlds and realities. Fill in the backstory. Take your readers on an adventure. Let your imagination run wild!

Who is the woman pictured - mother, sister, aunt, friend? About that letter she is holding, who is it from? Does the letter contain good news or bad? What's next in her life?

Who sent this postcard of a serene and idyllic river road? Who received it and why? What is special about this destination? Describe the town just beyond the bend. Does the sender or the recipient have family nearby? Include the river as a feature or character in your creative writing narrative.

