

Groan vs. Grown

There is reason to
groan,
if you haven't
grown!

The seeds you
have sown
should have blossomed
and grown;
otherwise,
there is cause
to groan.

It's no secret
why some
are so alone,
because their
relationships
haven't grown.

In society
it makes us groan
to see the
Tree of Life
cut down by the Culture of Death,
where the Gospel of Love
would have made it grown.

In our interactions
why are some
prone
to make others
groan,
when it is more
satisfying
to make one's own
the joy of
enabling others
to have grown?
