

TATUM GRAHAM

Tatum Graham is a persistent, motivated, and joyful person who never hesitates to let an opportunity slip through her fingers. She is currently a Senior majoring in Public Health and minoring in Emergency Management at The University of North Texas. Tatum grew up training in the DFW metroplex area in modern, contemporary, ballet, pointe, African, jazz, hip-hop, ballroom, acro, and drill team. Throughout college, Tatum has had the privilege and honor to choreograph solos, group routines, and teach dance classes. She believes there is not only beauty in teaching dance, but in teaching the life lessons that will be carried along for life from the hard work and dedication instilled at a young age.

In 2019, Tatum was a contestant on FOX TV's So You Think You Can Dance "Academy Round". In 2018, she was selected to travel to Osaka, Japan to perform as a soloist and company member of the Texas All Star Dance Team at the Miss Japan Drill Team Competition. She is a three time American Dance and Drill Team National Solo Champion and multi award winning competition title holder. She attended Rockwall High School where she had the honor to serve as the 2017-2018 Captain of the Stingerettes' drill team. She was the 2014 KAR Dance Model Search Winner and had the privilege to film dance promotional footage for competitions and be their poster model. Tatum was chosen to perform as the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade opening act in 2018 and in 2015; as well as perform on the Today Show in the 2015 Thanksgiving Special. She has performed in Disney Springs as a guest soloists and team performer (2011 and 2018).

Tatum loves to make people laugh and smile. Her true passion in life is to be a light to others while also sharing her love for dance. She finds great importance and satisfaction in pushing people to their fullest potential. She has learned that there is no greater joy in life than devoting oneself to others. Tatum attends Lake Pointe Church and volunteers in the children's ministry. She is also a member of the UNT FOCUS Christian College Campus Ministry Organization.
