

Spiritual Progress

You must be aware of where you are. Don't deceive yourself. God has spoken to you in the past that you are being taken spiritually to a new place in Him. It is a time for you to press in like you've never pressed in before. As you do this, you will overcome against the giants that are occupying your future.

These days are critical. Even though you have felt stopped and even stalled, you are advancing in a way that you have not advanced before. You have to believe that all this is working together for your good in order to know where you are going.

Things are changing. However, the change is necessary. Yes, change makes you uncomfortable because it is unpredictable, but you must make the choice to stand strong. You must make the choice to step forward. As you take that step, you will burn brighter with each step you take.

You have fought to make spiritual progress and to overcome the enemy. Now is not the time to stop. Throw off the weariness and press through. Throw off the doubt and embrace the truth. Throw off fear and step forward.

You are on the brink of breakthrough. Declare the victory even before you can see it. Keep pushing. Keep trusting. Keep the faith! He has no authority to remove what God has given to you.

This is where you walk over the troubled waters and see the shining light of His word as it takes form within your heart and within your spirit. Refuse to give in to the frustration that has come as a result of dealing with hindrances. Shake off that which has brought thoughts or feelings of failure and discouragement to you.

Go forth and you will defeat the works of the enemy. Rise up child of God and say, "I will walk this new path. I will walk on this path in the goodness of His glory." In Jesus name, let it be so and let it be done!

Gina Cobb
January 21, 2016