

Good morning!

Hope you are all doing well! It seems like New Year's Day was a LONG time ago. Each day seems like it lasts a week.....so how about a little 'tip' on the lighter side today?

Why wasn't Cinderella not very successful at playing basketball? She left the ball!

So another on the lighter side.....we always say that film does not lie, but take a look at a clip here that DOES lie!!!!

Good thing Scott, Leah Ann and Vince were on the floor and we don't have robots officiating! I bet the Hudl Assist statisticians wondered what was going on as well! Heck, the FANS 'saw' the ball go through the hoop also! In reality, the ball hit the padding on T's side of the ring and deflected into the hoop giving the perception that it went in (AND the perception that the officials ARE blind and let the teams 'rebound' a made goal)!!!!

Hope you keep things in perspective, use basketball as a release and enjoy every minute we get to enjoy this great avocation!

Have FUN in your game tonight!

Tim
