

Walking vs. Talking

When you first excogitate
the theory
and then test it in
practice,
you are walking
the talk.

If, however,
you start with
experience
and then submit it to
reflection,
you are
talking the walk.

If your knowledge,
therefore,
arises solely from
reading and hearing--
and not from
first-hand encounters-- you must begin
walking the walk
lest you be guilty of merely talking the talk.

© Msgr. Walter Niebrzydowski
September 14, 1997
Fr-Walter@nyc.rr.com www.fatherwaltersparish.org