normalize in this lifetime. Liars, frauds and cheats punish themselves sooner or later, just as those others will who have such an inflated self-esteem and are full of megalomania and highhandedness, along with all those know-it-alls who are slanderous and conceited. This is the Creative law of committing errors and their atonement, which has unrestricted validity in all of the universe's vastness, and of which all life forms are a part. This also includes the Japanese, some of whom consider themselves to be so knowledgeable and clever that they can insult and question the work of those individuals, who strive for the well-being of Earth's entire mankind, and reveal and disseminate the Creative teachings and laws and commandments, among other things. All of this is done for peanuts – which they will never receive in gratitude.

second of my life! Truly, I could not be the one who is active as the person who fulfills his mission and his duty to the best of his knowledge and capability, in fulfillment of all duties and decrees, as given since time immemorial. How audacious and disrespectful it is then of man on Earth who is still lacking knowledge, to shamefully accuse me of not living in accordance with my own verifications and my own experiences, and of not being capable of taking the appropriate actions as a consequence. This is the manner in which it was stated as an insult by human beings who were created on Earth. Their intelligence is as yet insufficient to grasp the scope of their accusations, let alone the fact that their reasoning is incapable of aligning Creation's truth into the correct sequence, as well as its entire existence in infinite love. As can be gleaned from the insulting and attacking words, the accusers' reasoning and intelligence just barely suffice to shroud their own personal pent-up emotions and conceit, as well as their highhandedness and megalomania, with insulting and defaming words against a third person. However, they do not comprehend that they are only hurting themselves and causing themselves great harm. It is not I who should be accused of lacking verification therefore, but they themselves, for it is they who are lacking it the most. Megalomania, arrogance, highhandedness, as well as self-righteousness, are all totally different matters from the honest investigation of the truth and its discovery or simply the evidence of the truth, which means that solid verifiable proof of the truth must be offered.

How boastful many human beings are who were created on Earth. They elevate themselves to the heights of those who have attained the knowledge. They simultaneously accuse those people who are truly knowledgeable of a lack of knowledge and dishonesty. All of this, even though they, the terrestrial human beings, are still very remote from being truly knowledgeable. To begin with, in this new age they have become involved with the introductory forms of true spiritual knowledge, in spite of their never having fully attained even the bottom step of the stairway to true knowledge, and as yet their not having any idea on how yet to overcome the next several millions of steps. Nonetheless, they regard themselves indeed as being knowledgeable, even wise, and have the mistaken notion that they have the capability of communicating with Creation itself, and making themselves its equal. How unfortunate for these people, because some day their intelligence and reasoning, on its own volition, will call upon them for their reckoning. Their fall is going to be so great then that their consciousness will lapse into confusion and madness, without having the saving grace of an opportunity to still see it plained to me. For the duration of my life I am at least beyond this point, because never having distorted or falsified anything was, and continues to be, a prerequisite for the faithful and honorable execution of my mission. Furthermore, I never would or could lie, let alone resort to fraud, deceit and charlatanries, in matters of the Mission and decrees of the Creative laws and commandments. I am beyond all of these human, inadequate and totally illogical matters. As well, this is fully proven by the steady progress of the Mission and the continuous, newly surfacing successes.

The last section of the question regarding my guileless acceptance of everything I am told by the extraterrestrials without double-checking, need be answered as follows: The posing of this somewhat rather illogical question proves that it originated at an emotional and egotistical level, in conjunction with an overly inflated self-steem of this person's own understanding of all things. The question also attests to a pronounced high-handedness, which manifests itself by admonishing me into finding the basis for my judgment in my personal experience. It is impertinent to believe that I am capable of relying only on words and phrases spoken or implied to me, without being concerned about the merits of their truth. Who and what would I be, I ask my accusers, if I really acted in this manner? Most assuredly I would not be the person on Earth who, for many reincarnations and for many millions of years, has been fulfilling the task and mission for human beings on many planets. Not the one who has been instructing those still lacking knowledge, reasoning and education, or those who are still confused, or those who were led astray regarding the truth about Creation's existence and its equally existing laws and commandments. I instruct on the teachings of the spirit, the Creative BEING, Creative logic, knowledge and wisdom, along with the timeless and infinite love of the universal vastness.

And who would I be – I who have been instructing human beings throughout many reincarnations on Earth for many thousands and millions of years on the existence of Creation, the teachings of the spirit, and the existence of the Creative BEING, knowledge and permanence, as well as on its endless wisdom and love – had I not already assured and apprised myself billions of years and eons of time spaces ago of what true and just truth is, what actually exists, and of life and love in general!

Who would I be, had I not been carrying all of these experiences within me for eons of years; if all of these experiences were not registered in the terrestrial and cosmic memory banks that guide me every nano-

ATTACKING QUESTIONS FROM JAPAN CONCERNING FREEDOM, CONTACTEES, THE F.I.G.U. BYLAWS, GROUP MEMBERS, ERRORS AND ATONEMENT, AND OTHER THINGS

- 1) The 'F' in F.I.G.U. stands for freedom, as I understand it. However, when one looks over the bylaws of F.I.G.U. in regard to the qualifying prerequisites for the admittance into F.I.G.U. and the rule for leaving it, etc., one realizes that very strict rules and innumerable restrictions exist. Freedom certainly does not exist in these rules. What for and why are there such constraints (one can translate this term "constraints" also with impediments)? Why are such impediments even necessary?

The 'F' in F.I.G.U. stands indeed for FREE and FREEDOM as well as everything connected within it, in which all of this has full rhyme and reason within all regulations and the required qualifications of F.I.G.U., as laid down in the statutes and bylaws regarding the rules for admittance and leaving. However, as a rule, all of this is misunderstood by those who have not been initiated into Creation's logic, since they are not yet open to the truth. Therefore, they misperceive and misunderstand that everything has to be part of a regulated order, be that Creation's order or one laid down by human beings. It is order only that assures the existence and evolution of each life when it lives in accordance with a given order – an order that can consist of a rule, a commandment, a guideline or a law. Yet life forms that do not conform to a generally valid order, automatically become hostile-to-life outsiders who impair, even endanger, the life, existence, as well as the evolution of all other life forms around them. This fact can only be recognized and understood by the person who knows that only an order which is lawful, according to commandments, regulatory or based upon guidelines, can assure the existence of life of any form, species or type. However, people who lack this realization rebel against such an order, and are of the erroneous opinion that freedom in any form is the product of the idea that any life form can and is permitted to do anything that just happens to suit its personal, intrinsic feeling of right and freedom, without having even the tiniest clue as to what freedom actually is, both generally and specifically.

Freedom means that Creation has given laws and commandments, guidelines and rules that exist in all nature and in all life, and all life must live its existence according to this order. Each life is free to make the decision whether or not it prefers to conform to this order, to live well, correctly and freely, or to transgress against this order instead, thereby leading a life of fear and constraint, making it an outsider and pariah, a degenerate and fugitive that burdens itself with guilt for all of which it will be punished, either by nature or the other life forms around it.

A human being still unenlightened and illogical in his thinking, lives with the erroneous assumption that freedom is something every life form can shape according to its own judgment and guidelines, without having to give any consideration to its surroundings, to other people and nature, etc. It is assumed, erroneously, that freedom and being free mean that man can always simply do whatever he wants or does not want to do, without having to acknowledge the environment and its laws and commandments, rules and guidelines, as well as its directions, etc., let alone the laws, commandments and rules of Creation and logic. Therefore man interprets the terms "freedom" and "being free" in such a way as to think that he is only free and living in freedom when he does not have to conform to any type of order and to be completely free in his faith. Truly though: To begin with, faith is not freedom and does not constitute being free. Instead, faith is a cruel spell and delusion, which causes man to be led astray in his thinking process, life and actions and, in turn, creates false ideas and pseudo-interpretations of the terms freedom and being free. That man should not have to conform to any type of order is just as wrong and absurd. No life can exist without it, not to mention that life could not even come into existence in the first place without some order being provided and obeyed. Life could never originate, exist and continue to do so, live and evolve, therefore, if an order were not evident or being heeded. Without order only chaos beyond compare would reign, barren of any life – where nothing could exist and nothing could evolve.

Freedom, being free, is an important factor to any existing and given order. Through it, every life form has the free choice and possibility to decide every time and always on the direction of its thoughts, philosophy, actions and life, and so forth – be that in the right or the wrong form. Thus, it is up to each life form to choose whether it wants to live in accordance with any type of order, the Creative order in particular, or be, that the contact conversations have also clarified the necessary facts pertaining to frauds, liars and cheats in matters of extraterrestrial contacts or higher spirit forms. Items are presented and called by their actual name, exposing their real nature. This is done to the dismay of those who claim of themselves, deceitfully or for pathological reasons, that they have the capability to demonstrate such contacts. And to the dismay of those who only too willingly lend their ear and much more to such liars. They give all too liberally for the salvation of their souls and to gain freedom from eternal purgatory. They do this to calm their guilty conscience or to simply cling mistakenly and faithfully to some euphoric and deceitful miracles and a life of glory. On the other hand, they may do this also to calm and deceive their own inferiority complex, in the hope of polishing and improving their own image, to gain more status with their fellow-men and, conceivably, to gain a better lifestyle and more joy for themselves.

It is neither my fault nor that of F.I.G.U. if my works and F.I.G.U.'s, along with the contact reports, are distorted and incorrectly translated from German into foreign languages, full of lies or in a slipshod manner by incapable and would-be translators, as it has been the case specifically with the Japanese translations. It is clearly the fault of those who make these incorrect, distorted and deceitful translations, and the fault of those who hire these incapable translators and languagebunglers to produce incorrect translations, and then become cheated by incorrect versions. All this has happened in spite of the fact that I and F.I.G.U. have frequently pointed out previously to those responsible in Japan, that massive, extremely grave errors and distortions of the truth had been occurring in the translations. Their untruths are often a crying shame and frequently express exactly the opposite of what was actually said and explained in our texts and books. The same applies also to the fact that I pass on verbatim, in the identical form and in every other respects, what Ptaah has explained, for instance, without changing as much as one iota or withholding any information; not to mention that I do not make up anything nor do I simply add to the explanations. Therefore, when someone says with great impudence that I must be a liar, fraud and cheat myself, if Ptaah is right, it already borders on unbridled, unparalleled defamation. One can validate that I have never said or disseminated any information other than what I have been told previously, be that by Ptaah, Quetzal, Semjase or a human being from Earth. With a clear conscience I am able and authorized to state that I have never distorted anything in my life nor have I incorrectly passed on anything when it was conveyed and ex-individuals cannot be found in any way amongst those who deceitfully claim having contacts with extraterrestrial life forms or more highly evolved spirit forms and higher spiritual planes.

Billy: Right. This is how you have explained things. But tell me, how long is the condition I have referred to still going to last?

Ptaah: Within the framework of how one must understand contacts of a communicative nature, and in context with the messages, teachings and guidance, etc., in the near and most distant future everything is limited also to the data I have already given you during our last conversation, e.g., on the 203 people per one million human beings. Those 203 individuals only have contacts in unconscious form, for they are recipients of impulses only, without any knowledge of receiving these instruction and direction impulses. Any further contacts, however – and this has been clearly determined by the Observers of Time – will not take place over the next 761 years. One has to take into consideration, though, that an encounter with extraterrestrial life forms will take place now and then; and that sightings of extraterrestrial flying objects will be made. However, none of this falls within the framework of contacts concerning spiritual messages, spiritual teachings and equivalent guidance. In this sense, therefore, you will be the only and last contactee for the next 761 years.

Billy: I don't quite understand this, for you have previously told me that this status was going to be only temporary.

Ptaah: That is correct. But I am speaking within the framework of our time concepts. For the comprehension by human beings on Earth, it appears as though I will have to explain that the present, within the time frame I have mentioned, includes the terrestrial term "future." It must be explained, therefore, that in the future, during the next 761 years, there will be no further contacts between human beings on Earth and the extraterrestrial and spiritually more highly evolved life forms, let alone the high spiritual planes, in the sense where such contacts are understood to be correlated to the teachings that pertain to the spiritual evolution."

The above dialogue should actually clarify matters, and additional answers to these areas of concern are probably superfluous, except, may-whether it wants to live in general. In this respect an individual is therefore absolutely free in his decision and resolution as to whether or not he wants to conform to an order on his own free will. Even laws, commandments, ordinances, decrees, rules and guidelines or other regulations provided by human beings for human beings, do not signify in any way that a person has to bind himself to them or follow them stubbornly. Moreover, these laws and ordinances, regulations and rules, etc., only mean that a human being who violates them has to take the consequences and atone for the infraction. As a result, the human being knows he is violating a law, a regulation or a rule, etc., and that this infraction will be punished accordingly. When a person knowingly violates any given order, therefore, he is punishing himself with the subsequent consequences; for he is acting upon the unrestricted freedom of using his being free, knowingly and in absolute freedom, to violate against a rule, a decree, qualification, a law or commandment, an ordinance or some guidelines, and so forth.

The reason why F.I.G.U. furnishes rules, ordinances, decrees, laws, etc., in its statutes and bylaws, is, in one respect, that they provide a functioning order, which assures a certain security for the Mission and all members and participants, as well as for the students, learners and others. This order, therefore, protects the Mission on one hand, as well as all students and members on the other hand, when through the given order, qualifications are demanded and hard rules provided, which demand from individuals that they use their freedom and their being free to determine on their own, truly their very own decision making in freedom, whether or not they wish to conform to the order or not. Whether or not they desire to be a part of those individuals who unconstrainedly align their lives, their actions, activities and thoughts, among others, because they want to live in accordance with the Creative laws and commandments and F.I.G.U.'s provisions and ordinances of the bylaws and statutes; and because they wish to live according to the Truth and the Creative logic and love. Otherwise they will be among those who exclude themselves from following the Creative truth, along with the teachings of F.I.G.U., who truly offers the Creative teachings in logic and endeavors to disseminate them according to the free form of a free order.

Freedom and the state of being free mean that a person is completely free in all matters of thought and action, as well as in one's own decisions, to walk and follow whichever path one chooses, be it the right or the wrong path. However, the type of consequence is always the result of which path one follows. The logic of sound conformity demands that the right path is remunerated with joy and love, knowledge, success, happiness, contentment and wisdom, along with all good and evolutionary features, while the wrong path leads astray, into misery, strife, lack of freedom, guilt and punishment.

He who is unfree within himself is unable to recognize his own true freedom, because he is his own prisoner and assumes he would be restricted in his freedom and being free, if he were to live according to the provided order – yet, he does not see that it is he who decides the pros and cons. This is the result of his own highhandedness and his belief that he could equate himself with Creation. His related actions are those of megalomaniac egotism, of illogical and limitless stupidity, without his having any understanding whatsoever of the reality and wondrous logic and love of all Creative laws and commandments.

For a human being, freedom and being free are not simply an external and physical matter, but are truly concerns of the person's inner self. Freedom manifests itself as an individual's inner condition, whether or not he is bound externally in some form, even imprisoned. The inner condition of a person's freedom and of being free reveals the condition of his consciousness and psyche, the evolutionary level of his consciousness, his understanding and his reasoning and, last but not least, his character and the ability to comprehend and live the Creative laws and commandments. For this reason a human being feels trapped, confined and bound in various ways or all physical concerns, when he must conform to indispensable laws and commandments, stipulations, qualifications, rules and guidelines, and other essential and unavoidable decrees. Yet, for this reason also, invariably, a human being always fully and unrestrictedly comprehends and feels his freedom, his being free. He lives accordingly when he recognizes and perceives his actual and true freedom in his inner self, thereby knowing that he is not and never can be bound by anything externally. His true freedom and his truly being free in his innermost self make him the freest creature in the universe. However, he who always seeks his freedom and his being free in external realms, on one hand, only misunderstands the truth and logic of freedom and of being free. On the other hand, he feels restricted and constrained in his false freedom through the provision of any given, required and vital law, qualification, direction, rule and guideline, as well as through any decree and commandment. On one hand, this condition stems from complete misunderstanding and, on the other hand, from a consummate lack of understanding, as well as from an apparently unlimited egotism that remains in existence and is perpetuated in this form until the afflicted per-

Ptaah: You are quick to grasp the connection and are right on target.

Billy: Once again this is too much praise. But during our last conversations you have spoken often on several occasions about numerous people who falsely claim to have contacts of some type or another with life forms other than terrestrial ones.

Ptaah: That is correct. This is particularly true of Japan, for there exists not a single human being who is having any connection or real contact whatsoever with extraterrestrial life forms, let alone who is having connections or contacts with more highly evolved spirit forms or higher spiritual planes. The ultimate nonsense of arrogance, of course, is the claim in Japan, that a Japanese woman is having a communicative relationship with Creation itself. This claim is not only incredibly arrogant but actually heretical against the truth and the immeasurable greatness of Creation itself.

Billy: Maybe it would be advantageous after all for me to know who is making these incredible claims, so I could fight back somehow and explain the truth in accordance with the Mission.

Ptaah: The information will be forthcoming shortly, straight from Japan, as there are people who simply do not accept every nonsense as fact, and consequently will speak up against it.

Billy: Then I shall exercise patience.

Ptaah: This is the right way.

Billy: Well then, here is a question. You have said, just as Arahata Athersata and Petale have stated, too, that at the present time I am the only one on Earth who can demonstrate that I am having contacts with extraterrestrial life forms, more highly evolved spirit forms, and high spiritual planes. My question is, how long is this condition supposed to last?

Ptaah: What I said did not imply that you are the only one, but that you are the single person who can officially demonstrate having such contacts. However, there are five (5) other individuals who are having true contacts, even though they do not occur in the same way and under the same obligation as yours have. I have also explained that these five other

"Ptaah: ... However, in spite of this, there are future incidents in progress intended to defame these facts, and to declare that you are a liar, cheat and a fraud. For this reason, it will become necessary for you to initiate some of your group members into your real activities, and to explain to them the facts. You must do so at the latest by February 20th of this year.

Billy: I don't wish to talk about it anymore, so I'll just have to do it. I will think some more about whom I should choose to initiate into it. They'll consist of 5 committee members, and that should take care of it.

Ptaah: Concerning their information, yes; but that won't be the end of it elsewhere, where once again actions are currently under way to maliciously discredit you.

Billy: Really, and from which direction?

Ptaah: The intrigues are starting on three continents. Japan, America and Europe.

Billy: So Japan is now ready too?

Ptaah: Yes, unfortunately. Unpleasant things have been going on there as well for quite some time now, which are very detrimental to the truth of the spiritual teachings and the entire Creative truth. Over a period of time, individuals of both genders have been appearing at various locations in Japan, issuing lies or delusional fantasies, declaring they are having and maintaining contact with us or with other non-terrestrial life forms. One person even claims with great presumptuousness that she is capable of contacting Creation itself, and that she is receiving guidance from Creation. With this type of deceitfulness and delusion, she animates her fellow-men, who fall prey to her. She does not wish to be corrected by others who truthfully are more knowledgeable and profound in their thinking than she is.

Billy: That's a great shame. I have already heard about such intrigues by certain individuals in Japan, but don't know any details. I think, though, that some things will happen soon in this direction if you are already warning me now.

son's eyes are opened by his efforts toward the real truth, by recognizing and assimilating it. In doing so, he comprehends the terms "freedom" and "being free," as well as "free" in their true meaning; he understands and implements them through his reasoning. Only when the individual has progressed in his evolution to the point of recognizing, comprehending and living this truth, will he be free from his associated egotism, from his false ideas and delusions of pseudo-freedom, pseudo-being-free, pseudo-judgment of freedom and being free. In all truth:

A human being's freedom and being free cannot be found in his external or physical realm, but only in his inner self, as a psychic and conscious state, free from egotism and craving for power, free from feelings of dominating others, emotions of despotism, and similar.

OM / Canon 16 / Verses 3 – 28 express the following on freedom:

3. Hear ye this. Only he who liveth in freedom and who liveth in accordance with the laws and commandments of Creation, is truly living.
4. And only he is able to accept and become receptive to the truth who truly liveth in freedom and who is willing to live in freedom.
5. Only he is able to absorb and listen who is free; and only he can become receptive to the truth, for he has free agency to do so.
6. All those are the living dead who lock up their freedom, though, putting it in manacles through their untruths and injustice.
7. They become their own prisoners through their own force and duplicity.
8. And they are the living dead who cannot be awakened, because their own mind and will are not so inclined.
9. And it is they who are shaking their heads in wonderment and lack of understanding as they see others who are successful in their freedom.
10. And it is they who have subjugated themselves that seeketh their freedom elsewhere, even though it is within each human being.
11. Man knoweth and perceiveth not that inner freedom is true freedom, and though he layeth in chains or languisheth in a dungeon, yet he liveth in freedom.
12. However, it is a man's inner freedom as he liveth in accordance with Truth and in fulfillment of the laws and commandments of Creation.

13. So there exists true freedom when man liveth in freedom within himself, when he possesseth truth, knowledge, love and wisdom, as he fulfillleth the laws and commandments of Creation in true joyfulness of his duty.
14. And man must be inwardly free, the only source of his living in true freedom.
15. Thus, as man is free internally, freedom will generate itself also externally, in his daily life.
16. And if man is just and inwardly free, he liveth without offense, sacrilege and transgression outwardly, without being inwardly or outwardly unjust, or being one of the unjust.
17. And if he is one of the just, he liveth as a just person inwardly and outwardly, and in true freedom as well.
18. As a just person in freedom he provoketh not displeasure and resentment inwardly or outwardly, for he is not amongst the errant ones who combat the just with injustice, wishing them only ill.
19. In a community man liveth with his peers, but in freedom the free person liveth only amongst the free, because the unjust are not free and are enemies of freedom.
20. The just person provoketh not embarrassment and displeasure before Creation, for it is only the unjust whose malice is aroused, who had better emulate the animals that liveth on Earth.
21. There liveth no beast on Earth, there flyeth no bird on two wings, which is not part of communities such as those of man.
22. And there is no beast on Earth that is unfree within itself and could be considered, therefore, an unjust life form.
23. Every beast on Earth liveth in inner freedom and is free externally therefore as well, for it liveth within the given order of the laws and commandments of Creation.
24. Is not man much more than all the beasts to whom he is superior?
25. Yet, every man's will lies in his free decision to live as an unjust or a just person; therefore, also as a person of true freedom or as his own prisoner.
26. Truly, he who liveth without his own freedom will suffer a painful life and languish beyond love and joy.
27. Only he possesseth and is granted true love and joy who is just; he liveth in true inward and outward freedom.
28. Justice will be his only to him who is free; true love, wisdom, knowledge and truth and peace as well, for he liveth in fulfillment of and obedience to Creation's order of the Rule of Seven.

course. But you cannot be classified as being in one of the categories mentioned. You represent a special form in all matters, one which cannot be measured with existing and common standards, if for no other reason than your unusual origin and your extremely longstanding responsibility to the Mission. For it predestined you alone to bear, lead and, indeed, fulfill this difficult mission ..."

As has been shown in the excerpt of the contact, there never was any mention of 203 people in one (1) million existing on a very, very high level. Furthermore, there is no mention whatsoever of such matters on page 12 of the Wassermann #74. Consequently, such a claim is either a very conscious lie and falsification of facts, or else it is a slipshod translation from the German language into Japanese.

What truthfully had been mentioned during the 233rd contact, though, was that true contactees only unconsciously receive impulses, and are totally unaware of the impulses having been placed into their heads by extraterrestrials or medium-level forces. This is true in spite of the fact that the impulse recipients' spiritual evolution and material-conscious development are still at a very low level, where they are incapable of deciphering the transmitted impulses in any manner. The recipients assess and judge the impulses as being their own ideas and thinking processes. This applies, even though they are quite advanced in their development in comparison to the normal population – albeit just advanced enough to be capable still of living freely with and amongst their fellowmen without becoming deranged. It becomes clear and easy to comprehend, therefore, that these 203 people in one (1) million are not so-called simple laborers, but individuals with professions such as scientists, design engineers, physicists, professors, physicians, and others. They are all people who receive impulses from extraterrestrial and medium-level realms for their work and its fulfillment; and their efforts will ensure mankind's progress and continuance on Earth.

Another incorrect claim in question #7 is that Japan will have roughly 120,000,000 citizens by September 1990. According to world population statistics on Earth, Japan had 121,049,000 people at the beginning of the year, while the Pleiadian verification figures show 121,708,000 people, which results in 24,707.724 impulse recipients when 203 of one (1) million people are eligible – applying the data of February 3, 1990. On this date, February 3, 1990, Ptaah commented once again on this subject:

contact on December 1, 1989, in the Wassermann pamphlet, issue #74, page 35, where Ptaah has, among other things, the following to say:

"All of those who may truthfully declare that they can demonstrate their having had contacts with other life forms of different types, albeit truthfully only as impulses even at that, will keep silent and will not appear before the public to proclaim this fact. Their task is not bound to taking such actions but, instead, is directed to fulfilling their task quietly, in a form that is beneficial to mankind in a different way. As I have already explained, their impulse-like contacts are small in number, 203 per one (1) million human beings. But these individuals, indeed, cannot be found among those who declare to all the world that they were having contacts with some extraterrestrial life forms, those from the Beyond, or with superior entities. There are only 5 persons among all those on Earth who can truthfully demonstrate contacts in this form, excluding yourself, who are presently fulfilling tasks in a conscious form that occur in public. But you have to fulfill a specific task, and what's more the most important task in a unique form, and you are committed to fulfilling a very important task – the most important mission of them all. Among all those people who are spreading their webs of lies concerning alleged contacts with extraterrestrials or superior forces and life forms of a different type, etc., one will not find any of those five (5) individuals whom I have named as being real contactees, nor will one find any amongst those who must be counted as being the remaining true-form contactees. In the first place, these true contacts occur with the individual largely as impulses only and in an unconscious manner. As a result, the actual contactees have no conscious knowledge whatsoever that they are, in fact, receiving any impulses from us or any other life forms of extraterrestrial origin, let alone that they are receiving such impulses or messages from higher planes, hence, from superior spirit forms. Therefore, true contactees possess no conscious knowledge of these matters and will only be able to hazily perceive this truth, should it ever come to this point. This is the rule to which there are only extremely few exceptions, e.g., those five (5) I have mentioned and you, of

- 2) All living things learn from one another and are dependent upon each other. There actually exist no "teachers only." We are all teachers and students simultaneously. There should not exist a hierarchy. Society should be based upon equal rights for all. This is what the Semjase people teach, isn't it? However, in reality the internal members are being granted a top position through the decrees of F.I.G.U., thereby turning everything into a hierarchy. Is this not the opposite of the actual dogma, the actual teachings of F.I.G.U.?

The claim that F.I.G.U.'s core group members are granted a top position is not only a vicious and erroneous assumption, but already constitutes an untruth, which is caused by and expressed from purely egotistical motives. In no way do core group members of F.I.G.U. play any hierarchical role; instead they are a small cog on a large wheel. First and foremost, however, the "large wheel" is life itself – including all Creative laws and commandments with which the core group members of F.I.G.U. have to comply as well, and which they have to observe in the same way as all other life forms worldwide and in the entire universe. As a result, pertaining to all life, they are equal in every way; thus also to human society, without having any special, authoritative status. It is therefore out of the question to speak of it as some hierarchy. Members of the core group and the secondary core group in Switzerland and in all other countries on Earth where groups will be appearing in the future, are a link in a chain which has existed now for nearly 389,000 years and consists of a group calculated to be about 52,000,000 human beings (to the first power), who perform a cosmic task worldwide. Of this group, 144,228 people have been entrusted with the special mission of joining as core and secondary core groups, so that they can teach other human beings on Earth, and compel their approximately 52 million compatriot advocates in this form. While doing so, they must work according to decrees which had already been decided upon and confirmed by a 13,500 year-old oath, in agreement with required facts and given laws, commandments, ordinances, rules and guidelines and others. The decrees, rules, directions and rules of order, among others, were already presented in foresight to this new age and to all F.I.G.U. members, be they members of the core group, secondary core group or passive members. These decrees, with the exception of those bylaw articles and statutes, which had to be generated exclusively by human legal enactment of the modern age, were planned and decided upon equally by the entire leading mankind some 13,500 years ago, and are to be followed by all. Therefore, all members of F.I.G.U. have to conform to these articles and decrees, including the members of the core group at the Semjase-Silver-Star-Center headquarter in CH-8495 Hinterschmidrüti, Switzerland. In fact, they must conform to much more stringent decrees than all the other members elsewhere in the world. It is precisely these core group members at the Center who have the hardest, most difficult task, and bear the biggest financial burden for the fulfillment of the Mission. Indeed, it is they who often slave for days and throughout nights under austere conditions, to fulfill their difficult duty. It is they who donate their hard-earned money so that the texts may be produced which are then distributed free of charge or sold at cost – and all this without anyone ever expressing gratitude to them. Day and night, indeed, even each Saturday and Sunday, they perform statute-labor in addition to their daily work to earn a livelihood. They can only dream of time off from work and of making small provisions for their old age by opening up their own a small savings account. They simply do not have sufficient funds for that, since all their daily earnings are needed to subsist – and whatever is left over is somehow contributed to the fulfillment of the Mission, the production of the documents, out-of-pocket expenses at seminars, and/or other expenditures required for the fulfillment of the Mission. All this, while self-centered and egotistical, uninitiated individuals often scorn them, call them fools and crackpots, accuse them unjustly and falsely of unequal, preferential treatment as core group members, and impute top positions to them, all of which is not based on any reality and any truth whatsoever. Those, however, who still insist on making such claims are probably not only very misinformed and misguided on one hand, but also self-biased, unjust and full of prejudices on the other, not to mention that they are full of egotism – the source of such slanderous claims – from which then originate the most incredible rumors. The fact that those who take exception are spreading such nonsense because of their lack of understanding and comprehension of the terms "freedom," "free" and "being free," is not even discussed here.

The truth is: All life forms learn from one another and are constantly dependent upon one another in manifold matters. Consequently, all life forms, particularly the human ones, are simultaneously students and teachers. At the same time, however, it is the duty and obligation of those who are more knowledgeable and wiser, to aid those who lack some of the knowledge, logic and wisdom, and to instruct and teach

7) In issue #74 of your pamphlet, on page 12, Ptaah said that there is a ratio of 203 individuals per one million human beings who are on a spiritually very, very high level and can, just like you, contact higher entities. With a population of 120 million Japanese, this would add up to 24,360 people who have such a high level and would be capable of such contacts. But you say all other contactees are liars, frauds and cheats, except for you. Ptaah, however, says that in addition to you there are other contactees who are just as authentic and are fulfilling their mission. Who is right then, you or Ptaah? If Ptaah is right, it would mean that you are the cheat, liar and fraud. Lastly, I would like to assure you that I have no intention of hurting your feelings in any way or of offending you somehow. But I take the liberty to ask: "Do you immediately accept everything an extraterrestrial tells you?" You should not believe things that cannot be proven. Why don't you judge these matters with the help of your own personal experience? (Things that you have already verified should form the basis for your judgment of everything.)

Neither Ptaah nor anyone else has ever said that on Earth there are 203 people in one million, who are on a very, very high spiritual level, and who, like me, Billy, could establish contact with higher entities; and it is also not written anywhere on page 12 of the Wassermann #74. This statement is either a conscious lie or a twisting of facts by the translators who translated the texts into Japanese. Or else, and this seems more likely, the translation from German into Japanese was simply incorrect. We have known for a long time and have complained about this fact, that the translations from German into Japanese were undertaken by individuals who have not mastered the German language sufficiently to carry out the tasks of translating the works correctly and according to the true context of the original German text. This has always been grounds for objecting to the Japanese translations to this very day in September 1990. This applies to every one of the texts that have been partially falsified through inadequate translations to the extent that they completely contradict the truth.

The above-mentioned twisting, falsification and defamation of texts refers to a statement made by Ptaah in a conversation during the 233rd now known as the Far Eastern (Chinese) countries. Thereafter they separated according to their race and migrated across the land and onto islands. They decided to remain permanently on this planet, and because of this they invited the others who had remained on the spaceships, to settle on this planet as well. In the meantime, however, these space-bound individuals had changed their minds and decided to search for their true, ancient motherland on the other side of the Milky Way, the Nisan system and planet Kudra. Subsequently they guided their spaceships away from Earth and began the lengthy voyage to the other side of the sun. With the exception of an unmanned robot spacecraft, not one ship or single human being reached this goal. Somewhere en route in the Milky Way, the ships and their passengers became lost and were never heard from again, and their whereabouts have remained an unsolved mystery until now. The elements of this event were only discovered by the Pleiadians within the past few years, when they found data in still-intact archive-memory centers on planet Kudra, which had become colonialized by a normal population long before. The data, in part, came from the robot ship that had been sent as forerunner from Earth to Kudra.

According to this discovery, therefore, the yellow race came to Earth 25,978 years ago as the youngest of Earth's inhabitants, where they procreated and formed new peoples who still exist even today. As has been the case with all other races and travellers from the depths of the universe, they have lost all knowledge of their heritage, just as the remaining nearly 219.8 million people have done who are of extraterrestrial origin. As a rule, they, too, no longer have any knowledge whatsoever of their actual origin, for they live as human beings among other human beings on Earth, and are part of an evolution, as well as an adaption to terrestrial life.

them higher knowledge. Yet, this is precisely a factor that does not appeal very much to human beings born on planet Earth, for they judge themselves, in the limitless egotism of their smugness and their need for self-aggrandizement, as always being greater, more knowledgeable, more intelligent and better than they truly are. They feel attacked and reprimanded by those who are their teachers and who are more knowledgeable. This attitude already is noticeable when children contradict their more knowledgeable parents, believing that they are greater and more learned than their procreators and educators. How much stronger this sordid behavior is manifested with so-called grownups, is demonstrated by the fact that students attack and unjustly defame their erudite teachers; attack and accuse them of inclinations toward hierarchy and lack of equality. And all this because those less knowledgeable and unknowledgeable cling to the erroneous belief that they already have a mature consciousness, are more erudite, and very capable of determining and making decisions on Creative laws and commandments, directions, rules, conditions, qualifications, and guidelines, etc. Yet they are truly lacking all necessary prerequisites of intelligence, reasoning, cognition, and compliance with the truth, which they will not have attained for a very long time. They behave just like juvenile, uncivilized and immature children, chiding those to whom they should be grateful for their infinite and often painful and exhausting efforts in offering all their knowledge, logic, reasoning and judgment to those who require the enlightenment. How infinitely painful it must be for them, therefore, when they are unjustly attacked and offended by ignorant, misunderstanding, disturbed, despotic and know-it-all egotists, while they make every imaginable effort and accept many trials and tribulations as they teach the truth to these despotic and disturbed egotists.

3) There are many stipulations listed which lead to the ousting of a member from the organization. And yet, in the bylaws it is stated that errors and sins exist so that they subsequently help us evolve and grow. Can we really judge others?

With total lack of understanding, the articles of the statutes and bylaws of F.I.G.U. and its regulations are mentioned in the same breath with the Creative law and its commandment, which states that each life form must commit errors and bear the atonement for them, if it is to evolve. Thus are created illogical and very obviously egoistical correlations where no correlations can ever exist.

The Creative law and commandment of the error-atonement-factor clearly and unequivocally states that man, for example, can only learn and evolve by committing errors. As a result, he recognizes and comprehends the wrongfulness of his actions; namely, by suffering some minor or major harm through the error committed, even though the harm is of a material-conscious or psychic nature, among others, and based upon the evolutionary process. This harm must be recognized by the person before he can alleviate it then. This alleviation of errors, often an unspeakable struggle and frequently a torture, is then the atonement that must be borne by man as he progresses through each existent lifetime. It is the law of growth and decline, as well as the law that each and every reaction has a very specific action preceding it – synthesized from the law of causality. It is also the law pertaining to the fact that each and every thing has to evolve within the existence of the entire universe; freely and under its very own personal force and upon its very own personal recognition, guided only by the teaching forces that are more insightful, and by the commitment of errors and the atonement, which will all lead toward knowledge and wisdom.

One can glean from the illogical and egoistical formulation of the above question that this fact has not been understood whatsoever, because the Creative law of the required alleviation of the error and subsequent atonement has not been understood or absorbed in the minutest detail. It could not be more stupid and hair raising to create a connection between this law of Creative form and the statute and bylaw articles. The F.I.G.U. statutes and bylaw articles, rules, conditions, laws, commandments, guidelines and so forth, are exclusively serving a human order, ensuring that F.I.G.U.'s mission can be fulfilled, and that the Mission and all participants and students may be protected and integrated into a certain realizing that everything is dwelling within him, longing to be awakened – as long as one knows how to accomplish this. Man on Earth will not have reached the point for a long time where he comprehends and understands this truth. This is why he believes he recognizes untruths in truth, however, and regards himself as greater, more knowledgeable and logical than he truly is. Misunderstandings may be one of the contributing factors for these illogical human actions, but this does not exempt an individual from his innate responsibility to think for himself and to explore any truth from the example of truth set in nature and in life. It is his inherent bounden duty, for the sake of truth, that laws and commandments of Creation are to be acknowledged and lived in complete freedom and self-responsibility for all things in life. All this without the delusional notion, that as an individual who lacks knowledge one is superior to those who have gained the knowledge and are wise; and that one can live according to one's own laws – not to mention that many of those who lack knowledge and intelligence, who are megalomaniacs and know-it-alls, think in their illusory "wisdom" that they are indeed above Creation.

Well then, 25,978 years ago, going back from the year 1990, a major group of searching, determined and adventurous people from the Kinten and Niiper races united with each other, to travel in an expedition into the vast universal space. Their first goal was identical to the previously established ancestral goal set down many millions of years ago – to reach the SOL system with its planets Malona and Earth: The first planet the forebearers came upon was a mass of fragments only; a ring of asteroids orbiting the sun, while planet Earth was already in full bloom. Encircling the Earth, as a moon, was the very fragment from a Lasan-group planet, which had been previously ripped away more than 20 million years past, by the destructive force of the dark planet, the "Destroyer." Thereafter, it had been pushed through the vastness of interstellar space, until its path decelerated in the SOL system because of planet Uranus' influence, only to glide then in moderate speed toward Earth, where it was entrapped by Earth's influence and has circled the blue planet, as a moon, ever since.

The Kinten and Niiper space travellers, totalling nearly 680,000 human beings in number, did not land with their spaceships on Earth but, instead, had themselves taken to Earth's surface by robot control devices. Only a few hundred individuals remained on board the ships that floated in open space. Those individuals who had landed on Earth, felt that the planet was inhabitable and settled in those regions which are in the process and gradually dying miserably when deadly epidemics raged in the overcrowded ships, cruelly killing billions of refugees before even the first inhabitable planet had been found. Death and misery raged until only a small, pitiful heap of human beings remained, 418,000 in number. It was this group who then found their way to the Lyra system and planet NISSAN, where peoples and very distant descendants of their ancient ancestors were already living. The wayfarers found their way to Lyra only through a fortunate circumstance, namely, the discovery that ancient coordinates were located in a coordination computer, which pointed out solar systems with habitable planets that were, however, far beyond the other side of the Milky Way. A planet known as Nissan existed there and was already populated. The coordinate delineations had been established prior to the departure of the emigrants' ships, via a central computer that had stored all available data and coordinates in the ships' memory banks, including also those of the Lyra systems and their planets. The data base information had been stored in the central computer memory since time immemorial, and had been accepted by predecessors, after having been input around 13.5 million years earlier by those responsible for the Lasan expedition.

Hence, the KUDRA emigrants finally found a new home on planet Nissan, which they reached approximately 2.4 million years ago when we calculate back from the present modern age. The two races settled on Nissan and quickly increased in numbers, which soon necessitated another emigration. The inhabitants found space in the Lasan alliance of planets that aided them in their dispersion, and in the course of time these people were able to take over two other planets for their home worlds, which had been designated to them by the alliance of planets. Soon the time came, however, when groups formed who wanted to venture further into the universe, to research and seek new living space and additional human life forms. This is the habit and idiosyncrasy of human beings throughout the entire universe, for they feel the urge for adventure and the desire to evolve, explore and penetrate to the root of things. It is a process peculiar to all human life. It breaks forth especially with full force and without restraint when reasoning and intellect are in the process of developing fully; when comprehension has not as yet progressed to the point of having attained the knowledge that only the power of the spirit and of consciousness are the highest achievements, which lead to true knowledge, absolute logic, wisdom, and to Creative love. However, a human being who has not yet been able to recognize and comprehend this, will eagerly seek to hunt for the new and the unknown, without security. This fact, however, is enviously and egoistically misconstrued, which indicates an immaturity of all knowledge concerning Creative and human legislation. The question demonstrates a misunderstanding and lack of comprehension of all basic laws of life, and of egotism, as well as a frightening rebelliousness against any sensible orderliness, be that one of Creative-natural or of human origin, or in form of orders, which are presently provided, as they will be later also to protect life, to give security, and a future and evolution to all life. Allowing thus all life to truly live and progress. However, anyone who ignores this and transgresses against it, be that in feelings or thoughts, words or actions, transgresses against the absolute and true freedom of life forms. By transgressing against an existing, ensuring order, human beings manifest their egotism, misunderstandings, lack of comprehension, in addition to a craving for dominance and power. In other words, man transgresses and rebels against the given and life-assuring order through any means at his disposal. Often enough such means are so excessive that a single individual is able to pull dozens or hundreds, even thousands upon thousands of other human beings into his or her abnormal and irrational spell, thereby allowing them to run into misery and ruin. This has been the case throughout the world with authoritarian and egoistical sect-masters of both genders, let alone those individuals who are capable of seizing nationwide power into their own hands, and then forcing entire populations into their murderous dictatorships because of a lack of logical, sensible laws, commandments, ordinances, rules, orders, qualifications and guidelines to guarantee a securing, protecting function for the external and internal freedom of man and his life. Anyone who ignores this order, or questions it, is still afflicted with a most severe type of egotism. Moreover, he has no sign of understanding and comprehension of what Creation, in its unfathomable love, has given to life, to man in particular, through very specific laws and commandments, rules, decrees and guidelines, etc., by creating an all-encompassing, universal order with infinite, true freedom for each and every life form. This order allows man also to conjure up and create, at his own discretion, life-protecting and life-securing laws, decrees, as well as orders, rules and guidelines and more. Such laws will guarantee that all life can exist and evolve in a similar manner, as it is guaranteed in basic form by the Creative guidelines. Thus, it is up to every person who connives, is depraved, lacks in knowledge and misunderstands, to integrate into the given, proper, securing and life-preserving order. The alternative is to simply intrigue, degenerate, place himself beyond any order, so as to founder miserably one day – be that intentionally or consciously, unintentionally and unconsciously simply because he prefers to maintain his stupidity and his unlimited, unbridled egotism, to rate himself as greater, superior and more knowledgeable than he truly is.

been discovered in the Lyra system by the old Lasans around 22 million years ago before their time, when the Lasans had followed a fragment of a planet and a destroyer planet that had devastated several home planets of the races in the Lyra system. This path led the refugees to an enclave of the galaxy beyond the galaxy's spiral arm, to a sun system with two wonderful planets capable of supporting life – namely, to the SOL system and Earth. On this planet Earth there existed in former times a gigantic landmass, an island, in a world-encompassing ocean, and this is where the refugees settled, in the remote north-eastern region of the former single continent, the Asia of today. The planet had already produced independent life some millions of years before, including that of human life forms. Furthermore, in some regions they also encountered groups of human beings, whose ancient ancestors had also fled from the Lyra systems.

The newly arriving descendants of the former Kinten and Niiper races, numbering a total of nearly 38,000 people, settled in the North East portion of the Earth's former single continent. However, their colonialization took place at a time when powerful upheavals and transformations were taking place on Earth, which meant that the climatic conditions were subject to these changes as well. The newcomers were not prepared for this and were unable to defend themselves against the forces of nature. Their spaceships quickly deteriorated, for they were unable to withstand the corrosive effects of Earth's atmosphere. After only a few years, when the catastrophe befell them, the ships were useless and inoperative, and every one of the newcomers perished. This then explains how the yellow races arrived here on Earth for the first time 6.7 million years ago, while being, at the same time, only latecomers of ancient inhabitants from the Lyra system who had first settled on a still barren, yet really beautiful Earth and planet Malona some 22 million years ago.

Meanwhile, the Kinten and Niiper peoples were leading a life of degeneration and excess on planet KUDRA in the Nisan system on the other side of the sun of the Milky Way. They lost all their restraints, morals and traditions. They no longer observed the laws and commandment of Creation and nature. They procreated in an unreasonable, unlawful and despicable manner, which resulted in an overpopulation of planet Kudra, whose inhabitants could no longer feed and sustain themselves. Consequently, millions of spaceships were fully loaded with people and sent on a voyage into the vastness of the universe, to find new living space and new inhabitable planets. Many billions of people left the planet in this manner, beginning endless voyages throughout the universe, getting lost

6) The Japanese and the Chinese have come to Earth 6-7 million years ago, as it was explained to me by Ptaah during my visit in Switzerland. On the other hand, in issue #74 of your pamphlet is written the following: The Japanese and the Chinese came to this Earth 25,978 years ago and are, therefore, a very young race. Which statement is actually correct?

(The type and format of the questions give the impression that Ptaah personally had spoken with the inquirer, and had given explanations and information. First of all it must be clarified and the fact noted that, of course, Ptaah has not given any information or explanations to the inquirer in person and he would never do so – however, all questions were answered exclusively by Billy, on Ptaah's behalf. The editor.)

It is correct that the Chinese and the Japanese human races on Earth are very young. If you calculate backward from the year 1990, they have only settled here on Earth 25,978 years ago, the time that denotes the final colonialization on Earth. The background for the appearance of the Chinese and Japanese races is as follows: The two yellow races were created and lived in their original native land on the other side of the Milky Way – on the other side of the central sun of the galaxy, therefore. For this reason it is said that they came from the other side of the sun. Their native system was called the NISAN system, where they lived on planet KUDRA.

Planet KUDRA was discovered by an expedition fleet from Lasan when it left the Lyra systems approximately 16 million years ago to conduct its research and search for human life on the other side of the Milky Way. In the process, the fleet came upon the yellow human KINTEN and NIIPER races who, on Earth, are now called CHINESE (Kinten) and JAPANESE (Niiper). Their expedition troops at the time brought roughly 4,000 people back to Lasan, whereupon they were settled on various planets, which was their wish. As normally occurs, the population increased, and in the course of thousands and millions of years, the peoples became considerably more populous and eventually occupied five planets in the Lasan alliance of planets. Then, approximately 6,7 million years ago, these peoples fought wars and had power struggles amongst themselves, whereupon a number of individuals from each race united and fled in 9 spaceships. During their flight they followed a well-known path that had

4) Everything is determined by a group of 49 individuals. Who guarantees the integrity of these 49 persons? By what criteria are these 49 individuals chosen?

This question has actually already been answered by the reply to question #2, and by rights this should suffice on this subject. The entire history of the Group of 49's formation is not significantly important enough to be made public to all the world at this time. For this reason the answer to question #2 must suffice. However, some additional, previously undisclosed details shall be given for a better understanding: The guaranteed integrity of the 49 people at the headquarter, the Center, is provided by the total, unambiguous and unquestionable truth, which they learn, disseminate and carry into the world's vastness to instruct their fellow-men, who are their peers in position and rights. They perform this task under the tutelage of forces that are already beyond the need for material bodies and live in the exalted planes of the Creative spirit, or have transformed themselves back from high spirit forms for the love of material human beings, to occupy human, material bodies, and to be lovingly active in this form for mankind. This is also done in view of the fact that such a life form unifyingly influences, with all honesty, truth and love, knowledge and its resulting wisdom, the 49 core group members at the headquarter, the Semjase-Silver-Star-Center, along with all those individuals worldwide who are connected with F.I.G.U. in any type of membership, who had been originally the product and the people of his creativity and love. They had been procreated according to all existing Creative laws and commandments at the time when Nokodemion established his people. It was because of this undertaking that Nokodemion returned from the spheres of the Arahat Athersata planes into the material world. But this story and its circumstances are not to wind their way into human knowledge; and for this reason they continue to be clothed in a mystery, whose moment of disclosure may perhaps never arrive. The criteria for the 49 core group members' selection at the Headquarter result from the answer to question #2 and shall not be elaborated upon nor explained any further at this time. At the moment these matters are not intended for the ears of outsiders who have yet to be educated and enriched by the spiritual teachings and instructions of the Group of 49 at the Center, so they may fully comprehend and understand the pertinent explanations. Were this incredible knowledge of all things revealed to non-members now already, without their having the strength to cope with the required understanding and comprehension, their consciousness would become confused and miss being a part of evolution. This has been the case already several times over the last few years with some people who pretended to be astute and rational, but who, indeed, were lacking the required intelligence and reasoning powers. Their consciousness became confused when they heard things that still went beyond their capabilities of comprehension and cognition, among other things. In eleven cases, unfortunately, it was unavoidable to prevent participants from being detrimentally affected because of their having cheated themselves. This will result in a need for greater care and more caution on the part of F.I.G.U. to prevent such incidents.

5) Semjase's population amounts to about 400 million according to the book. At the same time it was said that 500 million star people from Erra pray for peace. Which figure is the correct one then?

There is no such thing as a population of Semjase, and it has never existed. Semjase is not the name of a place or a planet, but the name of a beamship commander, namely, Semjase from the planet Erra in the system of the Pleiades. Moreover, this system is not even analogous to the system and star cluster of the Pleiades, the one that is visible from Earth and has been given the same name.

Erra is the main and leading planet of the inhabited worlds in the system of the Pleiades, which, in comparison to ours, is displaced by a split second into another time-and-space dimension, and can be reached from our dimension only with the aid of a space-time leap.

Erra is not inhabited by 400 million people, but by approximately 524 million, for the status of the population on Erra has changed drastically in the last 10 years, due mainly to the great influx of immigrants from the planets of the federation. These immigrants are Erranians who have returned to Erra, after having been active in the outlying regions, and to prepare themselves for further duties on alien stars and in foreign solar systems.

There has been no mention in any book, text or with a single word that 500 million Erranians were praying for peace on Earth. Were any mention ever made of the efforts for peace, then only in the sense that peace MEDITATIONS were conducted – prayers have never been mentioned. Furthermore, the number of 500 million Erranians has never been stated; instead the number of 511 million people, who are active through meditations for peace on Earth – and this is done only in cooperation with the 3.2 BILLION (3,200,000,000) additional human beings from the Pleiadian federation, which comprises many solar systems and planets throughout the vastness of the Milky Way that is familiar to us. Every month on the first and third weekend, in concurrence with the terrestrial calendar, these people meditate, on a schedule that coincides with Central European Time, with the Group of 49 at the headquarter of the Semjase-Silver-Star-Center, along with roughly another 3,400 inhabitants of Earth. Thus, the only mention ever made was that of 3.7 BILLION inhabitants of the Pleiades and their federation; never, however, of only 500 million Erranians.
