

METIUS BECOMES PILOT ON BIRTHDAY

Erwin Metius (right), with his flight instructor Geoff Orlandi, after Metius returned from his test to become a Private Pilot on January 28, 2014. A special day made even more so because it happened on his birthday. Metius, a resident of Jersey City, showed desire and determination throughout his flight training and the reward is that he can now enjoy all the satisfaction, excitement, and convenience of travel by air, as he pilots his way near and far. In fact, he is flying down to Florida in early April for a big aviation event. Erwin's training at Orlandi Flight Center (OFC), located at Blairstown Airport, was all year around, which gives him the experience of flying during all the seasons. OFC is open full time and year round to serve the needs of its students, and this winter, despite the weather, OFC has produced numerous pilots and student solos.
