

Yamnuska

April 30, 2016

Five years ago I hiked Yamnuska and always wanted to return someday. With the warm spring and the snow pack disappearing early - myself and 29 others set off from Red Deer around 7:00 am under cloudy skies with the hopes the rain or snow would stay away once we got to the trailhead.

Because of the size of the group we split into three smaller groups.

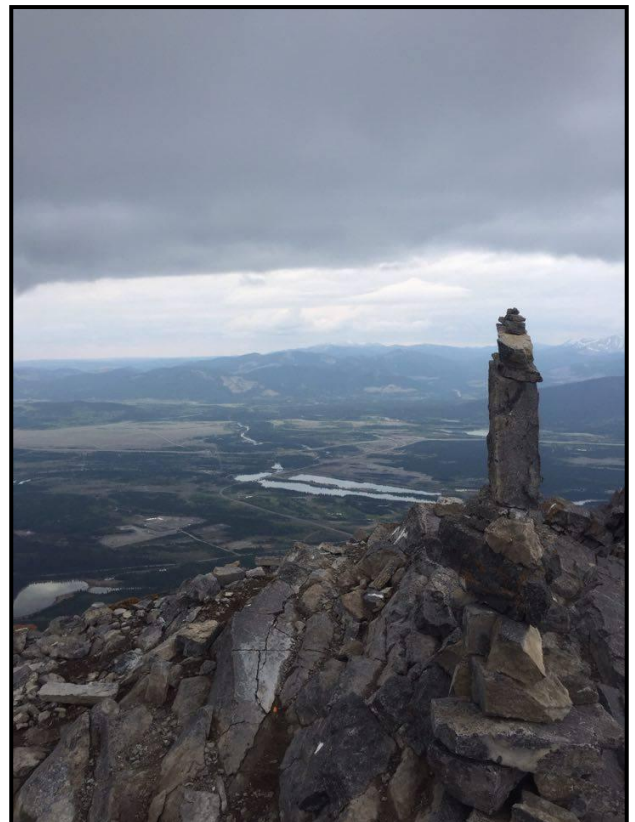

Yamnuska did not disappoint but gave us all a great day to remember until we hike her again.

Photo Credits: Leona

By watching your footing and remaining calm during the chain section anything is possible

The group stops for lunch at the summit and a much deserved break

Summit views after over 3 1/2 hours of hiking

The views were worth the climb

Heading down ... Slowly and carefully

