the magic of lenticular stamps

New Zealand Post issued a lenticular stamp, the Webb Ellis Trophy, on 7 September 2011. State-of-the-art technology used for the production of these stamps is far removed from taking a photograph or artist's drawing. Lenticular is the name given to the process of producing a motion stamp. This involves a focusing lens structure using thirty-six lenses on the back of the substrate. As you move the lenses, the picture appears to move. Another unusual production method was that the perforations were done by laser.

This unique way of producing stamps is done right here in Auckland. The company has also produced motion stamps for six countries, Austria, Australia, Ireland, Netherlands, Finland and U.A.E.

We worked on our first motion stamp project during 2005. It was issued by TNT in the Netherlands, to mark the Winter Olympics held in Turin during February 2006 (SG MS2520). Several million stamps, launched that month, sold out within 48 hours.

As well as the microlenticular material that is used to make the stamp, a special resin had to be developed that works with most ink cancellation systems around the world, so that the postmark couldn't be removed.

you tilt the stamp to the left Andreas Herzog is seen kicking the ball, and when tilted to the right, a goal has been scored. The magic of recording a moment in time.

New Zealand's Webb Ellis Cup lenticular stamp gives such incredible depth and dimension that you would swear you were looking at the real thing. The background uses a stylistic interpretation of the Manopare (Hammerhead Shark) and the Koru fern.

In Australia their lenticular issue was in 2007, and was to commemorate 'Year of the Surf Lifesaver.' Here if you tilt the stamp forward the life saving boat is in the low surf and when you tilt it backwards, the boat goes over a large swell and rises in the large surf.

The Austrian lenticular stamp of 2008 shows a famous footballer scoring a rather important goal. If

These stamps are very special and a result of some very ingenious and clever minded stamp producers.

Stamp Camp 2012 News Release

1st to 7th July 2012

Guy Dunlop Training Centre, Waddington, Canterbury

This year's annual Stamp Camp is being held at the St John's Youth owned Guy Dunlop Training Centre in Waddington, 50km west of Christchurch. (St John's personnel who came to help in Christchurch last year were based at this campsite.) The campsite sleeps 80 in bunkrooms, and has a well equipped kitchen and large hall.

The camp is being organized by the Philatelic Youth Council of New Zealand, with the assistance of the local stamp club, to educate and train enthusiastic young stamp collectors in the more detailed aspects of stamp collecting and exhibiting. The PYC's top youth trainers will be guiding the young participants throughout the camp, and all have been to previous Stamp Camps. The camp programme will centre on stamp collecting, but time will also be provided for outdoor activities, as well as a mystery day trip to visit local attractions. An experienced camp cook is joining our team to ensure everyone is well fed.

The camp will cost $250 for the week, with application form and $150 deposit preferably sent in by 1st May, with the balance of $100 due by 14th June. Bookings will be taken up to 14th June 2012.

If the camp fee is paid in full by 1st May, a $25 discount may be deducted.

Application forms will be sent to all Junior/Youth stamp clubs before the end of March, and can also be requested from Libby Davis, ( 03 348 0360, txt 027 235 0593, email Libby@ZL2UCX.gen.nz ). They will also be available shortly through the Christchurch Philatelic Society website, at www.cps.gen.nz .

A full checklist of all items and equipment needed will be sent when we receive an application form and deposit.

Inter-club Report – Ross Gainsford

The December end of year meeting was full of excitement and prizes. The drawcard was the announcement of the winning of the inter-club competition, which had been kept a secret from the club members. Great jubilation; as a club we are proud of the efforts of our members in winning the trophy once again

The annual awards were also presented. The MRG trophy for the most up and coming young philatelist to Andrew Sknar, in-house competition to Anna McTaggart, and overall winner's cup to Louisa Slack. Winners were also given philatelic gifts. The meeting concluded with the usual "eats" which were duly demolished.

This has been another successful year for the club with turnouts on meeting days between 15 and 25 members. We are always looking for new members to come and join us.

Youth Philatelist of the Year 2011

Norman Banfield, President of NZ Federation presenting Michael with his award at CPS 100.

Michael Davis of Christchurch has been awarded the Youth Philatelist of the Year Award. He has been a member of the Christchurch Junior Stamp Club since he was five, has attended four camps and reached the Silver PYC achievement award. Michael is a keen exhibitor and in 2011 his entry was sent to China, first International Stamp Exhibition. In his spare time (if he has any) he is also aiming to achieve his Chief Scout Award.

CPS 100 Photos

Young visitors to CPS 100 enjoyed the many activities which were there for them to take part in.

As usual our big dip tin, a suitcase full of stamps, proved to be very popular, with the great variety of stamps which were in it. Also our quiz proved to be very enjoyable and you will note on this page the three lucky winners, who received the New Zealand Post prizes. Obviously, as can be seen below, our big bird had lots more stamps stuck on to him!
