Work/Health/Life Balance - Jeff Salmond

Get Checked Out! Often times we are caught up with family, work, vacation, or other activities and do not pay attention to our health. In our industry, we work long hours, work in all sorts of weather, and eat unhealthy foods at different hours of the day. Come learn from Jeff and his experiences this past year after a doctor's visit. Just like our fields that we manage, we must maintain our own health.

2:15pm - 3:15pm | Breakouts Round One

Breakout I - Chris Ball 2nd floor Carolina room

Epic Fails - Come hear stories from colleagues about challenges on sports fields. In some cases the solutions worked out and in other cases they did not. Learn from this former minor league groundskeeper's experiences, as well as audience members, on how to not make the same mistake twice.

Breakout II - Joel Simmons 1st floor Atlantic AB

Soils - Having a great turfgrass stand starts with the soil. Learn the essentials on what turfgrass plants need to grow their deepest to recover from summer, survive winter, and green-up faster in the spring. The fertility inputs that you apply make the difference.

Breakout III - Casey Carrick 1st floor Atlantic CD

Synthetic Sports Turf Maintenance - Maintenance free, doubtful if you want your synthetic surface to perform and function like intended. Learn from this expert about tips on how to safely maintain a synthetic field.

3:15pm - 4:15pm | Breakouts Round Two

Breakout I - Jody Gill 2nd floor Carolina room

Professionalism - We are constantly being evaluated by different people everyday based on the way we dress, talk, act, work and much more. The level of professionalism we project determines the amount of professional and personal respect we earn. From social media to social interaction, we will discuss how to improve the persona we project in order to enhance our professionalism and that of others in our industry.

Breakout II - Ian Christie 1st floor Atlantic AB

Knowing and Owning Your Fertility - When the dollars are broken down, what are you spending your budget on for fertility? Learn how Ian tracks his soil tests to develop trends and reactions from fertility applications. Build your fertility program by mapping release amounts based off the engineering of fertilizer combined with sound nutrient basics.

Breakout III - Eric Harshman 1st floor Atlantic CD

Progression of Neglected Soccer Field - Has anyone ever compared your soccer field to a cow pasture? Learn how this professional turned a poorly neglected soccer field into a premium field surface.

Wednesday November 20

10:30am - 11:30am: Misconception, understanding fate, optimizing applications

2nd floor Carolina room

Synthetic pesticides are commonly used to manage weeds, insects, and diseases on managed athletic fields. Currently, there is much scrutiny around pesticides and their use, much of which is due to misinformation and lack of understanding pesticide fate and behavior.

Dr. Travis Gannon - Associate Professor Turfgrass Management NC State University

Dr. Gannon earned his Bachelor of Science in Technical Agronomy, May 1999, with Honors from NC State University. After graduating he worked as Research Technician, May 1999 – July 1999. Upon completion of his research technician role, Dr. Gannon joined the extension department as an Extension Assistant from August 1999 – 2011. While working as an extension assistant, Dr. Gannon earned his Masters of Science in Crop Science, May 2003 and his Doctorate of Philosophy in Crop Science, May 2011 both from NC State University.
