

MONTEZUMA'S MASONS

Luciferian Leylines of the Aztec Capital

The ley-lines facing north from Chapultepec Park configure the out-stretched 'eagle' eclipsed by a Horned Owl Molech-Bat. The Eagle is Mexico's national emblem of an Eagle grasping a Serpent as a snake is also configured at the base of the Eagle-Owl/Bat. The Masonic emblem of the owl, when the layout is placed up-side-down acts as the fulcrum for an 8-candlestick Menorah. The Owl/Bat hunts at night and sleeps with its eyes open. An owl is associated with 'wisdom' of the ancient secret societies. The Bat is symbolic of demonic evil forces of the night and it is used as a euphemism for vampirism as the occult require blood-letting from their sacrificial victims. This is much like the Aztecs did with their captors atop their pyramids. The Owl/Bat has its wings out-stretching in the Luciferian iconoclastic fashion of pointing 1 wing up and the other wing down, 'As Above, So Below'. The ley-lines of the Owl/Bat conjoins the 3-Dimensional pyramid with an Ascending Serpent and Alien Grey Skull as its base. At the center of the Owl/Bat is the Masonic iconic logo of the Compass and Protractor. Most prominent Mexicans in power and who have power are Masons like the President Benito Juarez, though most will not reveal. It is believed the all this so called 'secret' knowledge and societies originated in the destroyed continent of Atlantis. Plato writes about how some priest of Poseidon, Lucifer transferred knowledge to Egypt.
