

International College of Angiology

Call for Review and Original Articles

International Journal of Angiology

INDEXED BY

PubMed

Editor-in-Chief

John A. Elefteriades, MD, Connecticut
Yale University School of Medicine
The Aortic Institute

Consulting Editor

Kailash Prasad, MBBS (Hons), MD, PhD,
DSc, FRCPC, FACC, Canada
University of Saskatchewan
College of Medicine

Senior Editors

Pertti T. Aarnio, MD, PhD, Finland

John D. Corson, MB, ChB, New Mexico
New Mexico VA Hospital

Victor A. Ferraris, MD, PhD, Kentucky
University of Kentucky Medical Center

Larry H. Hollier, MD, Louisiana
LSU Health Science Center

Otmar M. Pachinger, MD, FESC, FAHA,
Austria
Medical University of Innsbruck

Pravin M. Shah, MD, California
Hoag Heart Institute

Bauer E. Sumpio, MD, PhD, Connecticut
Yale University School of Medicine

Managing Editor

Denise M. Rossignol, Vermont
International College of Angiology

The International Journal of Angiology is a peer-reviewed journal dedicated to the diagnosis, treatment, and long-term management of vascular and cardiovascular disease. This is a multidisciplinary journal, and publishes original research, reviews, case reports, and rapid communications on all aspects of angiology, and has been published for the last 25 years. Articles published cover experimental, clinical, and basic science; as well as the outcomes of medical research and clinical trials.

Publications of the International Journal of Angiology are now cited by PubMed/Medline and accepted for indexing in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new edition of Web of Science™

The publication of good articles will increase the quality and status of the Journal. The quality of the Journal entirely depends upon us. We have a great responsibility to further the cause of the Journal and the College.

We currently have a sufficient backlog of Case Reports for future issues of our Journal. We will advise you when the backlog is cleared. We do encourage you to submit ONLY Review and/or Original Articles. The journal's impact factor depends upon the receipt of these types of papers.

To achieve the above goals, we are suggesting the following:

1. Each Fellow, Associate Fellow, and Member should submit at least one paper per year.
2. Members of the editorial board (except members of the Advisory Council) should submit 2 papers per year.
3. Solicitation of Papers: Members of the College should try to solicit papers and reviews from other experts in the field of angiology.
4. Types of Papers: Review articles, original articles, case reports, and rapid communications/editorials. Instruction for Authors for preparation of manuscripts is on the ICA's website, or visit www.scholarone.com.

We would like to once again call your attention to our online manuscript submission process through ScholarOne (Manuscript Central). "Guidelines for Online Submission of a Manuscript" are located on the ICA's website. ALL manuscript submissions must be made through our online submission portal. Fellows of the International College of Angiology receive priority preference in publication consideration. It is to note, all papers will go through a rigorous review process before acceptance of publication. As always, we welcome your suggestions.