Volunteers are needed at the Brevard Museum of History and Natural Science. From the Ice Age to the Space Age, we have something for everyone! Whether you are an expert historian or just someone who enjoys community outreach we have a place for you. All training will be provided, so come on out to learn more about your neighborhood museum. We also have open shifts at our front desk for those who may like to volunteer but don't feel comfortable leading tour groups. We value our volunteers greatly and couldn't operate without them, so send us an email, give us a call or stop on by. However you get in touch, we look forward to welcoming you to our team!
