Career Accomplishments

Assisted the mill VP of Operations in designing the new work organization, creating selection processes, orientating new employees to the system and conducting interactive leadership development sessions to align leadership with the new structure.
- Charged with improving leadership skills in Tissue/Towel/Napkin manufacturing group made up of 10 mills located throughout the United States. Designed and facilitated bi-monthly leadership development workshops for the VP of Operations and the Operations Managers from each facility. Partnered with the Harvard Business School. Used Beowulf and Robert Frost as vehicles to move “engineers” out of their comfort zone.
- Part of a three-person team that designed and implemented an Ownership Based Work system for a 600MM capital project to upgrade two paper machines and build 7 state of the art tissue converting assets. Challenge was to step change ahead of all other consumer products competitors.
- Internal Work System consultant for a 388MM capital improvement project in the Utility department to eliminate a disadvantaged cost position. Pushed hard on developing a defensible selection process and improving Performance Management effectiveness in advance of implementation.
- Designed and chaired a mandated facility Diversity Council in large 1600 employee (non-union) Southern Paper mill. Outcomes included compliance with the legal requirements of a class action law suit, significant reductions in complaints to both corporate headquarters and the mill VP of Operations.
- Installed an Operator Technician system in a southern paper mill’s Converting Department. Focused on improving uptime and reliability of operating equipment. Paretoed the maintenance calls in order to identify which calls could be “fixed” by operators with minimal additional training. Outcome was a 50% reduction in maintenance calls in the first month of implementation and further improvements throughout the course of the initiative. Secondary impact was Maintenance workforce was freed up to focus on higher value work.
