5th Sunday Ordinary 'Study Text' Not for Liturgy Year A Mat 5:13-16

"You are the salt of the earth. But if salt loses its saltiness, with what will it be salted? It is no longer useful at all, except to be cast out and trampled under by men. You are the light of the world. A city set on a mountain cannot be hidden. And they do not light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a lampstand, so that it may shine to all who are in the house. So then, let your light shine in the sight of men, so that they may see your good works, and may glorify your Father, who is in heaven."

'The Salt of the Earth'

By Algernon Charles Swinburne

IF childhood were not in the world,
But only men and women grown;
No baby-locks in tendrils curled,
No baby-blossoms blown;

Though men were stronger, women fairer,
And nearer all delights in reach,
And verse and music uttered rarer
Tones of more godlike speech;

Though the utmost life of life's best hours
Found, as it cannot now find, words;
Though desert sands were sweet as flowers
And flowers could sing like birds,

But children never heard them, never
They felt a child's foot leap and run:
This were a drearier star than ever
Yet looked upon the sun.

Pastor's Study Desk Notes

Dear St Anthony & St Pius Families,

5th Sunday Ordinary Time

Matthew 5:13-16

Does salt actually lose its taste? Okay, maybe not. The TV show America's Test Kitchen tells us that the element of salt (NaCl) is remarkably stable even in food. It really doesn't lose its taste, but the perception of its taste can diminish over time due to certain factors, such as the particular food that it is in. For example, pasta left out in open air, tends to accumulate water, which dilutes salt's effect & taste. Also, the sweetness of excessive sugar can overwhelm salt's taste. Further, salt is less active in colder foods, in comparison to its effect and action in hot or warmed foods. And finally, (depending on how heavily we shake that shaker), taste buds can desensitize to salt, due to its overuse. So, even though elemental salt does not lose taste, it can be eclipsed by other factors either in the recipient or its environment. However, though we think of salt today as an accent to food, I imagine that in Jesus' time, salt's preservative effect was the most important use of it. I understand Jesus' point in using salt as an image for His disciples to emulate, to be that Christians should be distinctive & effective in preserving the good in others, just as salt enhances food's flavor best!

So, yes, salt diluted with water, salt clumped up, or salt contaminated with impurities won't be as effective, due to its additives impeding its work. What do you do with 'spent salt'? My eco-friendly gardeners tell me never to just throw old salt away, because it is a safe to use weed killer for eliminating pesky plants, without introducing the carcinogenic side effects of poison herbicides – which can also kill pollinating bees, or us!

But, what salt does best, is season and enhance the good flavor of whatever food it is added to. So, Jesus wants His disciples to do the same. Whatever we mix with, we should bring out the best in it. Like salt, we should preserve the good and accent the best within it. This image ties in so well with Jesus' repeated call for His disciples to proclaim the 'gospel' (Mk 16:15). 'Gospel' means 'good news' so the message of Christians should always be hopeful, optimistic and positive. We focus on the good and highlight the best in things. Christians emphasize the good, finding the best in everything and focusing attention fully on such positive elements. Every word out of a Christian's mouth should be 'uplifting' (calling attention to the good). Perhaps the measure of whether a person is Christian or not is reflected in their speech. Are their comments uplifting, dignified and positive? Or are they obnoxious, caustic and denigrating? In Colossians 4:16, the writer actually uses Jesus' same metaphor of salt here, by advising, "Let your speech always be gracious, seasoned with salt...." (Of course, St James warns us more strongly that many a person condemns themselves to fiery Gehenna by the crude use of their tongue--James 3:6) So, as Christians, we wish build up the good, and call people to better, by watching our words, so as to bring out the best in others, 'speaking only for edification, and not grieving the Holy Spirit, but imparting grace to all who hear' (Ephesians 4:29-31).

And what about the other metaphor Jesus uses to describe His disciples? Light! We are called to be the light of the world. What does light do, but guide and bring security? The right kind of light means everything. First, it points out to us the holes or bumps on the sidewalk at night to keep us from falling, but it also pierces the dark under the couch or under the sink to help us find what we are searching for there. Light guides and keeps us focused. Darkness conceals or hides, preventing good from shining. Ask a painter, how challenging it is to paint a room/home at night. Many a paint job I have done, but never claimed it complete until I inspected and touched it up the next morning, when the bright light of day tested my work. Just as there is the right tool for any job, also just as important, is the right light (ask an electrician about the hazards of fumbling with boxes and fixtures without good light)! Light, while not shining on itself, draws attention to what it is shining on, and encourages the best from it, by its highlighting. Just being under light's shine, makes us sit up a little straighter and focus more on successively finishing what we are undertaking (there's an observer effect, on our work, that better ensures a job well-done and fulfilled when someone is watching-can see it well!) So, Jesus uses these two common images of salt and light, to push us to be our best and to draw the best out or from others too! We Christians should be salt of the earth and light of the world, to make things better by our presence!

Peace, Fr Brian
