

Sharing my contacts:

I am sharing your information for a reason. A friend passed yesterday after being very ill and in the hospital unable to communicate how to get in touch with her family to let them know she was passing. Yes, they were finally able to be reached after much scrambling.

This made many of us realize that even though we talk of all of you often, my friends don't know how to reach my family and my family doesn't know how to reach my friends if something should happen to me. I am fine by the way...

So.....I am being pro-active and sharing information with you.
