

On-Demand Health Stations

Bringing Telehealth Care to Your Community!

UR Medicine is partnering with Five Star Bank to bring quick and connected access to our telehealth service, On-Demand Video Visits, via health stations installed in communities near you.

WHAT ARE ON-DEMAND HEALTH STATIONS?

Think of the health stations as your gateway to better health.

Located in secure, private spaces within select Five Star Bank locations during regular business hours, the stations are designed to make access to telehealth care easier and more convenient.

HOW THEY WORK

Establish Your Baseline: Use the health stations to measure vital indicators like blood pressure, weight, and other key health conditions. This baseline will help you understand your health status and guide you on the next steps to improve your well-being.

Connect with UR Medicine Providers: Need medical advice for common, non-emergent conditions? You can connect directly to a UR Medicine provider via the Health Stations. Conditions include but are not limited to abdominal pain, allergies, cough, sore throat, and more.

Symptom Guide at Your Fingertips: Unsure about your symptoms? Scan the QR code at getcare.urmc.edu on the health station to access a handy Symptom Guide for quick reference to see the where you should get care.

UR Medicine is the first system in the country to offer telehealth services via a health station (kiosk) in a financial institution.

POST-VISIT CARE

After your virtual visit, a summary of your care will be sent directly to your primary care provider via fax or will be uploaded to your MyChart. Need a primary care provider? No problem! We can assist you in connecting with a local provider to ensure continuity of care.
